GRAYS HARBOR HIT BY RAIN AND WIND

Aberdeen, Wash., Dec. 15.—(P)—Raked by a succession of terrific gales, Grays Harbor had almost four inches of rain in 36 hours, climaxed by a virtual cloudburst at 8 o'clock this morning.

Almost an inch of rain carried over a 70-mile gale roared over the harbor in the brief span of five minutes this morning, worst downpour remembered by E. B. Crary, official weather observer and a resident here for 37 years. Streets ran torrents within a minute or two after the squall hit. An hour later the storm had abated and calm settled.

Despite the terrific storm and rain, little damage was reported here.

Infect Cattle Range.
Red Bluff, Cal.—(U.P.)—Five thousand head of deer which "moved in" on the McKenzie-Stover winter cattle range, when their own grazing grounds were exhausted, are eating so much that the 3,000 head of cattle for which the range is maintained are threatened with starvation.

Portland, Dec. 15.—(P)—Russell Utz, sawyer, was caught in a saw and killed yesterday at a lumber mill. Utz, dragged into the saw by his clothing, was nearly cut in two.

5TH TERM—He's against it, said Maury Maverick, fiery mayor of San Antonio, dodging reporters' questions about a third term. Said he: "I'm against 4th, 5th terms."

CAPITOL CAPITALIZES ON OIL—Oklahoma City's oil rush didn't halt even at the state capitol grounds. Here's an oil well with the capitol building in the background; the governor's mansion, too, has its circles of oil wells. Royalties on oil production here go into Oklahoma's public building fund to finance hospitals, colleges and other state buildings.
