credited and an effort made to repeal them unless some house cleaning is conducted and the administrators replaced. Chief enemies of the laws are the administrators.

To date wage-hour administration has been conducting its operations by rules and regulations, few of which have been tested in the courts. The wage-hour officials are attempting to undertake what the NIRA (blue eagle) failed to do. Blue eagle codes endeavored to tell every employer what he could do, but each code was administered by men covered by the code, such as lumbermen administering the lumber code; furniture manufacturers policing their code. These code administrators were familiar with their particular industry.

Now contrast the code administrators who understood one business thoroughly with the wage-hour administration which does not know any one of the hundreds of industries, yet wage-hour officers are applying regulations regardless. If the codes had their troubles (and they did), imagine the mess when a central federal agency in the national capital is trying to run every business.

LOGGERS in the woods of the Pacific northwest find they are making less income under the wage-hour act than before this statute became law. In the Ponderosa pine belt, where snow, mud and bad roads prevent all-year operation, wage-hour officers have refused to recognize seasonal exemption as provided by law. There is no fruit or vegetable cannery in Oregon or Washington that has not been affected by arbitrary regulations.

Boiling up in the house of representatives is a storm of wrath which will one day break over the wage-hour act and its administration. Original objective of wage-hour advocates was to assist sweatshop workers in the east; not interfere where workers and boss are satisfied with hours, pay and conditions and not interfere with farmers marketing their perishable crops. Administrators of wage-hour law recognize no such inhibitions.

HERE is something some Republican may turn to campaign account: At his formal, official reception to the diplomatic corps last week, President Roosevelt, like the Mikado, King George, et al., sat upon a throne and before him made obeisance the foreign representatives in their brilliant uniforms. That was something new in the White House (President Tyler's young wife sat on a dais, casting gospel), for the president always stands and shakes hands. It is a physical strain for Mr. Roosevelt to stand for two hours, leaning upon a cane and giving handshakes, so he had a comfortable, high-back chair placed for him. Mrs. Roosevelt, however, stood.

Life's darkest moment: One of the ambassadors was bending low when a seam in his trousers ripped.

SUGGESTION NO. 1 HOW TO RAISE CASH

This Is How We Financed Our Christmas Shopping...

Less than a week ago Bob and I were having a sad case of doldrums! Reason? No ready cash with which to buy Christmas gifts, and we just couldn't let ourselves get in debt. Then Bob thought of the Classified Ads and without telling me, he placed an ad mentioning the things like Mary's baby carriage and Brother's three wheel bicycle, our old gas heater and Bob's old golf clubs—which we had no more use for. Sure enough, Bob sold everything and handed me the cash with which to Christmas-shop for the family. We're happy. And the folks who bought those former possessions of ours at low cost will have a merrier Christmas too.
