"Tower of London" Opens Today

One of the bloodiest and most dramatic periods in all history, the fighting fifteenth century, reaches the screen in "Tower of London", the fantastic story of Richard III and his blood purge for power, which opens a three day run today at the New Rialto Theatre. Basil Rathbone has the title role of Richard and Ian Hunter heads the supporting cast as Edward IV. Boris Karloff is starred opposite Rathbone as Mord, the most heartless beheadman of the time. Others in the cast include Barbara O'Neil, Vincent Price and Nan Grey.

"Riders of Black River", starring Charles Starrett, plays as the companion thrill picture with "Tower of London".

Wall St. Report

New York, Dec. 28.—(P)—Just when almost everybody in Wall street had given up hopes of a year-end rally, stock market leaders today turned around and pushed up fractions to more than 2 points. Slightly higher tendencies were in evidence at the start, but dealings were light and minus signs plentiful. Prices soon began to harden, however, and volume picked up on the swing. Near the close extreme gains were shaded in some cases. Transfers were around 1,000,000 shares for the second time in two weeks. Today's closing prices for 22 selected stocks follow: Al. Tarzan Back

Marking his first appearance on the screen in three years, Johnny Weissmuller comes to the Roxy Theatre for today and tomorrow only in his famous role of Tarzan, King of the Jungle, in the latest adventures of the Edgar Rice Burroughs hero, "Tarzan Finds a Son". Maureen O'Sullivan is again cast as his mate and an exciting new character is introduced in the person of five-year-old John Sheffield as "Tarzan, Jr.", who emulates Weissmuller's athletic and underwater swimming feats.

hands of agents of a Central European country who are identified as "the Gestapo". Maurice Moscovitch is the prize winner and Sonja Henie is his daughter, who has accompanied him to his Swiss hideout where he continues to work toward peace and sends his articles to various newspapers of the world. Milland and Cummings are the two newspaper reporters whose bosses recognize the articles as the work of the eminent doctor and send them to reach the notable, and get the story that would prove a "scoop" of international importance. They are kept away from him by his daughter and constant association with her soon has the two enamoured. Through Milland's publishing a story of the discovery of the writer alive, the Gestapo agents arrive to murder Dr. Norden, but are foiled by the newspapermen. Yesterday's audience seemed to thoroughly enjoy the new Sonja Henie, enjoyed the snow and skating scenes, laughed and chuckled at the humor and otherwise had a grand time.
