WORLOW PURDIN FIRST TO MAKE SOLO FLIGHT UNDER CCC TRAINING

Worlow C. Purdin of 335 West Holly street made his first solo airplane hop yesterday afternoon at Medford municipal airport. He was the first to solo among the ten Southern Oregon College of Education, Ashland, students receiving instruction under the government's civilian pilot training program.

Purdin was followed closely by George R. Jensen of Ashland, second of the group to solo. Both students soloed for 15 minutes, made three landings in that period. Their solo work was observed by Thomas A. Culbertson, Jr., flight instructor of the group. Culbertson said the students did their solo work perfectly. Eight hours of dual flying must be completed before a student may solo.

Both Purdin and Jensen are enthusiastic about flying. Culbertson said. Neither had ever had any flight instruction before registering for the government's course at the Ashland college, he stated.

Hi, diddle dee, the cow jumps over the sea

DESPITE all her experience with the unusual, Mother Goose herself would be surprised to meet a cow on the high seas at milking time. Yet this, in effect, is the daily experience of a thousand crew members of our tanker fleet. Fresh milk—a pint a day for every man—has been made the rule.

This would quite overwhelm those ancient mariners who sailed in the days of wooden ships and iron rations. They considered themselves lucky—and probably were—if they got a swig of lime-juice often enough to keep away the scurvy. Fresh milk at sea was beyond dreaming about.

So the cow who jumped over the moon is now jumping daily over the ocean—thanks to refrigeration and to elaborate arrangements made by our maritime commissary, a department whose cupboard was never like the one of that other Mother Goose mother... Old Mother Hubbard.

Epoch-making as it may seem, the provision of fresh milk for men at sea was a natural development for this Company, which has always felt that the best in fuel is the proper thing—whether for man or motor car. And it's the judgment of expert dieticians that—for seaman fuel that delivers full power without knocking or carbon deposits—fresh milk is unsurpassed.
