

NEWLY APPOINTED ECONOMIC COUNCIL IN FIRST MEETING

Governor Hopes for Plans in Development Resources, Marketing and Farming

Salem, Ore., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Governor Charles A. Sprague told his newly created Oregon economic council today it should "contribute toward a proper charting of the course of Oregon's economic development for the immediate future."

He told the council of 20 members, meeting for the first time, it should plan the development of natural resources, improve marketing of agricultural products, develop a coordinated program for industrial development, expand fisheries and commerce, and develop a sound forest policy.

State in Transition
Asserting that many persons believe the government should take over or finance industrial and agricultural enterprise, the governor said he believes "that release of the energies of a free people under the stimulus of self-interest was the most effective means of restoring prosperity."

"We must recognize that Oregon is in a transition stage from reliance on the primary industries to dependence more and more on the refining processes which provide greater employment and add more to wealth."

He said he would retire half the council members at the end of each year to "keep it fresh with new brains and so the burden will not grow too heavy on any."

Holmes On Committee
Chairman E. B. MacNaughton of Portland said he hoped the council would have something "definite" by the end of the year for submission to the 1941 legislature.

Chairman MacNaughton appointed four subcommittees including:

LOCAL FORESTRY STAFF MEMBERS GET PROMOTION

The largest single turnover of personnel of the Rogue River national forest was announced today by Karl L. Janouch, supervisor. The fire chief and two district rangers were involved in the transfers. The changes represented promotions for all.

Simeri Jarvi, fire chief with the rating of assistant forester, will go to Lakeview where he will be on the staff of the supervisor of the Fremont national forest. It is presumed here he will continue to serve as fire chief in addition to handling new responsibilities. Jarvi has made an outstanding record during the two years he has been fire chief on the Rogue.

Replacing Jarvi here will be Maurice Tedrow, now a district ranger on the Colville national forest in Washington, with residence in Tonasket. Before going to the Colville forest, Mr. Tedrow served on the Rogue River national forest for six years as guard and ranger. He married Nellie Batten who had been employed several years as a clerk at forest headquarters here.

Paul A. Brinson, ranger in charge of the Butte Falls district, has been promoted to ranger of a district of higher rating on the Siskiyou national forest in Washington. He will be in charge of the Skykomish district.

Brinson will be succeeded here by Waldo L. Petterson, now assistant ranger of the Lake of Woods district. No replacement has been made yet for Mr. Petterson, Mr. Janouch said.

Homer J. Hixon, ranger in charge of the Union Creek district, has been advanced to the staff of the supervisor of the Colville national forest with headquarters in Republic, Wash. He will be rated as an assistant forester.

Mr. Hixon will be succeeded on the Rogue forest by Richard H. Tubman who will be advanced from a lower class ranger district of the Columbia national forest.

Mr. Petterson will take charge of the Butte Falls ranger district January 16 and Mr. Brinson will leave for his new post January 21. The other transfers are effective February 1.
