A Scout is considerate — and recognizes merit

THE Boy Scouts of a certain community recently pinned a medal on this Company. Well, maybe it wasn't a medal. In form, it was a paperweight, designed to grace a desk instead of someone's chest. But like a medal, it was presented for something the Scouts considered merit.

The memento expressed appreciation of this particular Scout Council for the many years of interest this Company has shown in its activities by support of its work. The Scouts indicated that, so far as they were concerned, we had won title to a mark of distinguished service.

Now, for many years—in their city and many another—we've tried to do those simple things which add up to good citizenship. Whenever we have been part of any community—living and doing business there—this Company has done its best to forward welfare and character-building projects of every type.

We're proud that these Scouts should feel our efforts in their behalf entitle us to something which we like to construe as a badge of fellowship. The way we feel about it is that so long as we live up to their standards of citizenship we'll be doing all right.

17 ARRAIGNED IN HURRIED ROUNDUP OF INNER CIRCLE

The court room was filled with friends and relatives of the men. Several women wept as the prisoners were led away.

In Albany, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman said he would order an immediate investigation of any connection between the Christian front and the personnel of the national guard.

Major Gen. William N. Haskell, commander of the New York national guard, said he had ordered Capt. John T. Prout, Jr., of the 165th infantry, one of those arrested, be relieved of his command pending the result of the federal inquiry.

Rep. Emanuel Celler (D. N. Y.) of Brooklyn, said he was one of the congressmen marked for assassination and declared that as ranking member of the house judiciary committee he would recommend legislation to increase the penalty for sedition.

Penalty inadequate "The penalty now seems to me to be inadequate in this case in view of the plans these men had," Celler said.

The infinitesimal size of the group, Hoover said, in no way lessened the fanatical earnestness of its members. He added that the men in numbers and zeal resembled the early group that laid the groundwork for Hitler's rise to power.

Just how the men believed they could carry out the alleged plot in a city which has a police force of 18,000 and several nearby army posts was not explained.

FBI agents were searching in many localities for caches of arms such as the "small arsenal" they found in New York City in the course of a continuing six-month investigation of the alleged conspirators.

Among tentative aims, Hoover said, was assassination of 12 congressmen—identities not disclosed—as examples to all those who voted for repeal of the arms embargo.

"Day" Nearing The day for striking against the government, Hoover said, was to be soon after a final drill in bombing and firing which had been set for January 20—next Saturday.

The names of the 17 and information on each as given by Hoover:

Michael J. Bierne, 32, naturalized Irish-born citizen, corporal in the New York national guard and a telephone company lineman.

William G. Bishop, believed born in Vienna, Austria, 39 years ago. Three times deported from Great Britain and three times from Belgium for activities not yet learned.

Macklin Boettger, 32, native of Pittsburgh, Pa., member of national guard, either New York or Pennsylvania. Salesman for a washing machine company.

Andrew Buckley, 34, naturalized Irish-born citizen; sergeant and qualified gunner in company H, 165th infantry, New York national guard, employed as a tailor.

William H. Bushnell, Jr., 18, unemployed.

Claus G. Ernecke, 36, native of Berlin, Germany, who has taken out first citizenship papers. Member of the German American Bund. Served one enlistment in troop A, 101st cavalry, New York national guard Correspondence school salesman.

John F. Cassidy, electric light company clerk.

John F. Cook, 19, member of the U. S. marine reserve corps.

John A. Graf, 23, public utilities clerk.

Leroy Keegan, 37, native of Chicago, member of the U. S. naval reserve.

George Kelly, 24, hotel employe.

Frank M. Malone, 25, department store employe.

John T. Prout, Jr., 29, a telegraph company employe; captain 165th regiment, national guard.

Alfred J. Quinlan, 27. John A. Viebrock, 36, elevator mechanic, in whose Brooklyn home FBI agents said they found cans of cordite and partly-made bombs.

Michael Vill, 35, naturalized German-born citizen; Rapid Transit company chauffeur.

Edward Walsh, 23, unemployed; private in national guard.
