NAZI ONSLAUGHT BACKS ALLIES UP WEST OF SCHELDT

losses" threw back allied troops to new defense positions in the Belgian Lys river valley and spiked through almost to the World war battlefield of Ypres. The new onslaughts were aimed at separating French, British and Belgian armies—estimated at between 500,000 and 1,000,000 strong—already encircled by the Nazi pincer movement.

To the south, along the Aisne-Meuse river sector, the French reported that their 75's (3-inch guns) were taking a tremendous toll as German infantry battered in vain to break the allied lines.

Whole Companies lost Stunned German soldiers wandering into French positions confirmed reports that complete companies of Nazi infantry were wiped out, the French said.

Bodies of Germans were reported "piled high" between the lines.

"The first rush of the enemy has come almost to an end," said French General Duval. The British air ministry said Royal Air force bombers battered enemy communications in Belgium and Holland.

A German drive centered on Menin, on the Belgian-French border 35 miles northwest of Valenciennes, launched "with-out regard to losses," it forced the allies to withdraw to new lines west of the Scheldt river to protect their left flank.

Liaison Looms Hammering through the Lys river valley, the Germans claimed to be within 18 miles of effecting a liaison with their forces to the southwest—a maneuver which, if successful, would leave one portion of the allied armies completely surrounded by German troops, and the other blocked on three sides by the Germans and with the English Channel at their backs.

The German high command, meanwhile, declared that Nazi troops had captured Calais, likely springboard for the attack which the Nazi regime has sworn to make on Britain. The allies maintained Calais still was in their hands.

At Berlin, the death of Prince Wilhelm of Prussia, oldest son of former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm, from a wound received while fighting in Flanders was announced. One other member of the house of Hohenzollern, Prince Oscar, a cousin, died on the Polish front last fall.

The French acknowledged the loss of Boulogne but declared the German advance had made no considerable progress for 48 hours. There was a new note of optimism in the attitude of the French high command.

EAGLE PT. FAMILY IN AUTO SMASHUP

Grants Pass, May 27.—(Sp.)—Five Grants Pass young people narrowly escaped injury Friday night when their car and one driven by L. H. Wright of Eagle Point sideswiped and the Grants Pass car dived over an embankment towards the Rogue river a half mile south of Rogueview Auto camp, between Grants Pass and Rogue River.

The Grants Pass car lost a front wheel in the collision and the axle plowing into the highway and down the embankment brought the car to a stop. None of the occupants were injured. Mrs. L. H. Wright, in the Eagle Point car, suffered lacerations above her right eye. The car turned on its side after the impact. Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Wright, who were coming to Grants Pass to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Miles Otis, were Chester Ellis and Earl Jones of Butte Falls, and Mary and Eleanor Wright, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Wright.

PENNY USED AS FUSE CAUSES SMALL FIRE ON WEST JACKSON ST.

An electric fire attributed to a cent coin used as a fuse burned a washing machine cord and a drop light cord at the Refrigeration Service company, 229 West Jackson boulevard, yesterday at 10:30 a. m. Firemen answered a ward alarm.

The burning cords were discovered by Edward Gould, owner of the establishment, who happened to stop by to do some work. It was stated by Edward Canoose, assistant fire chief, if he had not happened along, the place might have been seriously damaged or destroyed by fire. Mr. Canoose declared.

Residents were warned again by the fire department not to use coins in fuse boxes. Only the proper kind of fuse should be used and if there is any doubt the California Oregon Power company or a qualified electrician should be consulted. Mr. Canoose said. Fuses, he pointed out, are used to prevent fires and the destruction of electric motors and bulbs through overloads.
