

KIWANIS WELCOME NEW MEMBERS AT WEEKLY LUNCHEON

Introduction of new members in the local Kiwanis International organization was principal event at the regular weekly meeting of the local service group Monday. The following new members were introduced: Russell D. Davis, Kenneth Parrett, Lee Watson and Frank Farrell, were presented with membership pins and a plaque listing objects of the Kiwanis International by John Mann, charter member.

Dr. Sherman L. Divine, principal speaker, took as his subject the first object of the Kiwanis International code, "To give primacy to the human and spiritual, rather than the material values of life."

Interpreting this object in terms of present day events, Dr. Divine pointed out the background of the founding fathers in this country: their search for freedom of religious worship. Their flight from oppression and the continuation of their search for individual liberties was their motivation in colonizing the new world, he stressed, and each generation since has defended the faith of their forefathers in religious and political liberty by force of arms when necessary.

Speaking of the current threat of international power politics to the American ideal of religious and political liberty, Dr. Divine pointed out that men of all types of backgrounds who subscribe to those ideals of liberty as we know them were finding a common meeting ground in a renewal of their religious faith.

G. PASS FISHERMAN IS RESCUED AGAIN

Crescent City, Cal., May 28.—(P)—If the third time's a charm, Vincent Boyce of Grants Pass, Ore., had better not go fishing again.

For the second time in two weeks, Boyce and his boat were found drifting helplessly on the Pacific off northern California Monday. He had been missing four days. It was understood his craft was disabled by fire. It was towed to Eureka by Dick Reeves of that city.

Quints Six Years Old Today Attend First Catholic Mass

Callander, Ont., May 28.—(P)—The Dionne quintuplets, six years old today, awoke to a day of new experiences and another milestone in their upbringing.

Attendance at their first mass marked the entrance of the five famous little girls into their seventh year—which will bring them a real beginning in their religious instruction in the Roman Catholic faith and take them from the kindergarten to the primary school course of Ontario education.

For the first time they had permission to sample their birthday cake, a five-section affair with six candles for each—yellow ones for Marie, pink for Emille, blue for Cecile, green for Annette and mauve for Yvonne.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo, their beloved physician, also came in for his share of congratulations, not only for his part in keeping them alive against great odds in the infancy, but also for his 57th birthday tomorrow.

The dark-haired sisters were joined in the festivities by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, and several of the other eight Dionne children, some of whom are away at school.

The past year has brought the sisters news of war in Europe and a problem of universal interest among young ladies and old ones too—overweight.

Dr. Dafeo made them give up starches and sugar for a while because they were "a little too fat," and their dieting brought the desired results.

Letter Shower for Pastor

To the Editor:

Would you please publish the following communication?

To the members of the First Christian Church: As Wednesday, May 29, is the birthday of our beloved pastor, Bro. Coleman, may we please join in sending him a birthday letter shower. As he is away for a few days it will be alright if it reaches their house on Fri. Their address is 1108 W. 10th St. If you have learned to love him, if he has helped you in anyway, won't you tell him so, and may we make this a birthday he will never forget, when he knows he is not forgotten by his people. Perhaps there are our friends who also have learned to esteem him, who would like to join us in remembering him. Just address R. W. Coleman, 1108 W. 10th St., Medford.

Thank you and God bless you all.

Mrs. Bertha Huson, Rt. 1, Medford, Ore.

BOYS FOUND DEAD IN REFRIGERATOR

Roseville, Cal., May 28.—(P) Chief of Police Lou Allen today was investigating the deaths of two small boys whose bodies were found in an ice-box.

Allen said it was possible the boys had been locked in by playmates, but that he was also searching for any evidence of murder.

The boys, Richard Payne, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Art Payne, and Bobby Richmond, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Richmond, had apparently been dead for several hours when searchers found their bodies.

Legionnaires and townspeople joined police in a search for the boys after their parents reported them missing. The bodies were in separate compartments of the icebox which was in a shed on their parents' property.

On One Leg

Boston.—(P)—Bobby is a hen with plenty of courage. Last fall her left leg was severed in an accident, but with the help of her owner, Joseph D. Craven and the sympathetic care of Mrs. Craven, she has learned to walk on the other one. Little by little she learned to spread her toes and lean her weight to one side. Now she is able to hop several yards alone.
