

Cop Loses Plea
Salem, May 28.—(AP)—Frank Winslow, former Salem police officer who was discharged on charges of incompetence and discourtesy to the public, lost his fight for reinstatement today when the state supreme court held that Chief of Police Frank Mint had authority to dismiss Winslow.

By golly, she's just like a two-year-old

FULL of energy and spirit —of oomph and animation —is the Golden Gate International Exposition, which once more is welcoming its thousands to Treasure Island in San Francisco Bay. Just like a two-year-old it is, in this, its second year.

Where that good American expression came from, we don't exactly know. Sometimes it seems to mean a thoroughbred —alive and sleek and swift-moving. Again it connotes a youngster who has found feet and voice and become a new, dynamic personality. Either way it fits this Fair and this Fair fits it.

We shan't attempt to describe the Exposition's new, its matured charms. It's enough to consider the miracle of its very existence. In a war-torn world, already blackening everyone's tomorrows, it sits—a bright moment for the snatching—a precious bit of fun-loving, peace-loving, progressive America.

That, say we, is the proper spirit. That, we believe, is a spirit which will move Americans everywhere to take foot in hand and travel San Francisco-ward. By their presence they will make this Exposition the expression of a people who share that stamina and joy-of-living which makes them too —just like a two-year-old.
