In The Day's News

By Frank Jenkins.

PAUL SATKO and his "ark" bob into the news again—this time at Nanaimo, on Vancouver Island, where he seems to have arrived without mishap. Satko and his family (wife and seven children) are headed for Alaska to take up a homestead. Their "ark" is a home-made ship, powered by an old automobile engine.

They had to sneak away from the American cities on Puget Sound, as the authorities wouldn't let them leave—said the trip was too dangerous.

THE American authorities were doubtless right about the danger. Queen Charlotte Sound, with a storm blowing in, is far from safe for a home-made tub powered with a flivver engine.

Still, where would the Pacific coast be now if authorities in Missouri a century ago had refused to permit ox-team trains to leave for Oregon and California on the ground that the trip was too dangerous?

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, in his Sunday night "fireside chat," calls for an end to "fear, illusion and calamity howling" in connection with the present trend of the war in Europe and American preparations for defense against whatever may threaten us.

He is right. Fear, illusion and calamity howling will get us nowhere. Only courage, determination and patriotic cooperation will get us where we want to be.

AMONG the illusions that need to be destroyed is the panicky idea that the world will end so far as the United States of America is concerned if the Allies are defeated.

When the war ends (no matter who wins) the world will still need American goods, materials and services. We may not like Hitler, but that will be no reason for not trading with Germany. We are supposed to look upon Japan as our probable enemy in the event of trouble, but for years we have been Japan's best customer and Japan has been one of our best.

(Britain and France aren't defeated yet, and every day they hold makes it less likely that they will lose disastrously.)

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT adds: "American defense requirements will be built up to whatever heights the future may require."

That is true. We have the time. We have the materials. We have the ingenuity and the skill and the ABILITY TO WORK HARD that are required.

There is no occasion for panic. It may even do us good to have a national goal we are all agreed on. We have been working at cross purposes TOO LONG.

AT THE National Capitol WITH John W. Kelly

The file tells of 10,000 or 15,000 Spanish refugees (communists), who are in Mexico, with the United States as their objective; of some thousand Germans who have also gone to Mexico within the year, presumably as members of the "fifth column." Senator Holman has sought an investigation which would have been, in its way, as sensational as the exposure of un-American activities by the Dies committee, but the Oregon senator has been stymied.

THE Holman data and the Dies hearings were belittled and discredited until quite recently when Dies received some confidential statements of such a startling nature that when they were revealed to the department of justice and relayed to the White House, the re-organization order was promptly issued.

Secretary of Labor Perkins has been so tolerant of aliens that not only members of congress but officials of the state and other branches of government have expressed concern. Miss Perkins has taken the side of aliens against experienced officials of the immigration service and refused to act on reports which under other secretaries of labor meant prompt deportation of undesirable. Although it is known the patrol force along the border is insufficient, Miss Perkins asked for increased appropriations for other activities rather than for more money for more men for the patrol.

HIS message to congress making the transfer, the president said, in so many words, that control of aliens now is a man's job, and gave a slap at Madam Perkins by stating immigration and naturalization can be more efficiently enforced by the department of justice. Which is what Oregon's Holman has been trying to say since early in 1939.

HERE is what administration executives are discussing: What if Hitler invades England and demands surrender of the British fleet; threatening to lay waste the tight little island if the fleet is not turned over to him? With Hitler in possession of the fleet it gives him, perhaps, control of the Atlantic and the British islands in the West Indies. It would enable him to attack Canada and would the United States stand for that? Mr. Roosevelt has said that the United States would never stand idle if a foreign nation invaded Canada.

All speculation, of course, but it gives an idea of what is running through minds in the national capital.

GERMAN officer, stationed in the capital, drops in on American army officers every few days—sometimes every day. He has informed the Americans of every step Hitler takes in his war drive, predicting to a day when this or that would occur, and his record of predictions is 100 percent. The German is cultivating the friendship of the army officers. What the Americans have not discovered is how the German receives his information of the Nazi movements so far in advance.

Big Applegate, May 23. (Sp.) Student reporters from Applegate school summarize accomplishments of the school term just closing in the following report:

All pupils received either final certificates in writing or certificates for their grades.

Temple Rose read the most books in the last year, 34. Carolyn Benedict ranked second in reading. Norman Kubli received an award for perfect attendance. Beverly Mee, Carolyn Benedict and Melvina Rowden received awards for the best scrap books on phases of their school work. Mrs. Haskins, who is returning to the upper room next term, plans to spend her vacation in Illinois, visiting her parents and other relatives and friends.

Mrs. Leora Pease, primary teacher, is leaving to teach at Agate. Miss Margaret Starnes of Ashland has been secured to fill her position.
