

HITLER TO MAKE "SENSATIONAL" ANNOUNCEMENT

ish and French authorities said the Germans had lost 500,000 men in the 22-day-old war in the west.

Wholesale slaughter of Hitler's conquering warriors was indicated in a Berlin dispatch which said that 100 huge Junkers-52 type planes—each carrying 20 soldiers sitting, eight lying on stretchers—were used in one day in a single section on the western front to transport wounded troops to base hospitals.

Hiyub, neighbors, we'll be seeing yub—in droves

If a visitor went to Portland's first Rose Festival—in 1907—he went behind a horse over excretable roads or behind a big-stack locomotive. He had his choice of one "hay-burner" or the other. Later one might go in his Winton-Six or Pope Hartford. But the Rose Festival remained primarily a carnival time for the home-folks.

This is what makes Portland's annual fiesta of roses the most neighborhood of all such celebrations—world-famous though it may be today. When it comes to gifts of roses, Portland has always been Nature's Best Girl. So, when Portlanders invite you to attend their Festival, it's really an invitation to share their good fortune.

Throughout the era of good roads, Portland's Festival slogan has been "For You a Rose in Portland Grows." Meaning thousands, millions of them. Meaning come and revel in their beauty. Meaning we'll enjoy things more if you enjoy them too.

This is the sort of neighborliness which merits reciprocity. Hence this Company is happy once more to remind the entire West that Portland Rose Festival will await you this year—June 5-8. Lay your plans now. These days it is but a step to such beauty as would not be duplicated if some miracle-worker brought over the original Alhambra and Taj Mahal.

A regular air ambulance service for the German army has been established, the dispatch said.

Now "On To Paris!" Meanwhile, German radios blared a new "On To Paris!" song instead of the popular "We Are Sailing Against England"—hinting that the next Nazi blow may be directed against the French capital.

In the flight from Flanders, British tommyes fought to hold the allies' "escape" port of Dunkerque and stem the Nazi advance to the sea.

Dunkerque itself was a kettle-drum of dinning anti-aircraft fire.

Naval guns cooperating with British pursuit squadron operating from bases in England a few minutes away made the air "literally forbidden" to Nazi bombers.

Thousands of battle-weary troops, both French and English, streamed into the port through a pass between muddy sea water, several miles wide, which girded the city like the moat of an ancient fortress. Canal locks opened by the allies spilled deepening water over the flooded defense area.

Pocket Wiped Out The Germans reported wiping out a British pocket near Cassel, 20 miles south of Dunkerque, when the Tommies attempted to break through to the north to reach Dunkerque and embark in the great retreat from Flanders.

Trapped French forces in the Lille area were said in Berlin to have "practically ceased to exist."

An early attempt by Adolf Hitler to split England and France with separate offers of peace—under threat of calling Germany's axis partner, Italy, into the war—was forecast in London today as the Nazi legions struck harder to crush allied troops retreating from Flanders.

Nazis asserted that 1,000,000 French soldiers alone have been killed, taken prisoner or are facing imminent annihilation since the real war in the west began with the smash through the low countries 22 days ago, and it was declared that the allies in Flanders were falling back "not in orderly retreat—it is pell-mell flight."

Airplanes Needed British soldiers en route to rest in England's flowering countryside declared grimly that they had inflicted five casualties to one on the Germans in Flanders, but the cry on nearly every man's lips was: "For God's sake, give us more airplanes!"

A British officer said allied losses were far less in the last few days than might have been expected.

"But the slaughter among the Germans has been incredible. The German commanders seemed to be throwing away their men's lives," he said.

The battle of Flanders appeared nearly ended in favor of the Nazi legions yet the allies, seeking to salvage all they could from the German trap in Belgium and northern France, claimed a new success for the French army of General Jacques Adolphe Prioux.

Germany already had reported capture of General Prioux, his staff and hundreds of men. But a French military spokesman declared this morning that "important elements" of General Prioux's army had battered their way through the Nazi lines to the neighborhood of Dunkerque, chief embarkation point for the allies withdrawing from Flanders.

England, fearing the next major German assault would be aimed at her rather than Paris, was ready for an "early call on the civil defense," and prepared to start moving 39,000 children from southeast coast towns.

GOOD PROGRESS IN RED CROSS DRIVE SEEN FOR COUNTY

The Red Cross campaign for war relief funds is progressing satisfactorily in Jackson county and an excess above the original quota of $2400 will result if everyone is generous in accordance with his means, it was stated by Ben E. Harder, campaign director.

The original quota will not be formally doubled, Mr. Harder said, explaining that it was not feasible to change the goal after a campaign had been in progress. Finding it was facing the "greatest catastrophe in all history," American Red Cross national headquarters a few days ago doubled the nation's quota to $20,000,000 and asked all chapters to consider the original quotas as "absolute minimums."

Medford over-subscribed its share of the county's quota and if other communities do likewise a sufficient sum for the present will be raised here, Mr. Harder said.

THIEVES TAKE MILK FROM FREIGHT CAR

A Southern Pacific refrigerated freight car, spotted near the auto loading platform just south of Main street Wednesday night, was broken into and two cases of baby Alpine milk stolen, according to Fred G. Morris, freight agent here. Mr. Morris said the seal of the door was broken to effect entrance to the car, and that nothing else was taken. The car contained a mixed shipment of canned milk.

Wall St. Report

New York, May 31.—(AP)—Steels and aircraft, buoyed by prospects of growing domestic and foreign armament demands, provided the main bullish leadership in today's stock market. It was far from a one-way trend, however, and gains running to 2 or more points for favorites in the forenoon were reduced at the close and numerous issues were about even to down a shade.

The final session for May was one of the slowest of the month transfers for the five hours ap proximating 550,000 shares.
