Voters League Makes Plans for Year's Study

The 1940-41 study program for the chapters of the Oregon League of Women Voters has been received by officers of the Jackson county branch of the group. Each of the five departments has a special subject for study and research.

The department of government and operation will study a "merit system for state and county employees." "Modern methods for increasing state aid for education" will be studied by the department of government and education.

Two subjects are listed for the new department of government and social welfare. They are "modern methods for dealing with wards of the state through appointment of a commission for institutional management under merit principles," and "federal responsibility for public health."

The department of economic welfare also has two topics. They are "state unemployment compensation law," and "health insurance."

"America's evolving foreign policy," and "world organization for peace" are on the program for the government and foreign policy department.

Commenting recently on the work and program of the League of Women Voters, Mrs. Leonard Carpenter, president of the local branch, said: "Women must understand the operation of our government and take part in it. It is our vital duty. The least we here can do in this stricken world is to study and to know what measures and what candidates for political office will best advance the cause of a free and noble civilization in our country."

Preliminary plans for the coming year's activities of the Jackson County League were made by board members of the group at a meeting held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carpenter.

A "Know Your County" survey will be conducted under the chairmanship of Miss Marjorie Kelly of the department of government and economic welfare as a summer project. The project will be similar to that conducted last summer of the city government.

Mrs. O. A. Eden has been named membership chairman of the league, with Mrs. Paul Janney as assistant.

Queer Plans Advanced for Financing Red Cross Work

Washington, June 3.—U.P.—The American Red Cross still is short of its financial goal in helping Europe's war refugees—but it certainly is not short of ideas on how to raise the money.

Everyone seems to have a brainstorm on how to swell the relief organization's pocket book.

For instance, a Maryland gambler offered to place $35,000 worth of gambling equipment at the disposal of the Red Cross to help it attain its $20,000,000 war-relief goal.

The organization has turned him down gently—as it has turned down hundreds of others with a variety of promotional schemes. Some offer their fundraising suggestions for a consideration—others donate their bright ideas for the sake of humanity.

A New York executive has suggested a three-day period to be observed nationally when every person using an elevator would deposit a penny in a "war relief pot" for each trip up or down.

A golfer comes through with the suggestion that on a Red Cross golfers day, all money lost in wagers on the links would be placed in a special box at each clubhouse.

An admiring husband has eagerly offered to lend his wife to tour the nation under Red Cross billing—the idea being that audiences would flock to watch the young woman in what her husband describes as her "sensational act of hanging by her hair."

A New York truck driver thinks the cause of war relief can be vividly publicized by posting pretty nurses in all ambulances and auxiliary trucks.

Oh, yes. He offered to drive one of the trucks.
