PARIS OCCUPIED BY HITLERITES; MAGINOT THREATENED FROM REAR

Le Havre, Vital Port Also in Nazi Hands Says High Command

Hitler's armies swept on past fallen Paris late today, striking 30 miles south of the Marne to Romilly, on the far upper (eastern) Seine, and stormed France's great Maginot line itself in a bold frontal assault.
While Nazi troops marched through the streets of Paris—and Frenchmen wept at the conquest of their beloved capital—the German high command announced also the capture of Le Havre, vital French trans-Atlantic port on the English channel.

It was apparent tonight that the vast and supposedly "impregnable" Maginot fortifications were fast being flanked. Its northern bastion, Montmedy, has already fallen.
Dead-tired French poilus, many of them without relief since the battle of France started June 5, beat a retreat from Paris under the onslaught of the German avalanche—and awaited word as to where, how and even whether the battle is to go on.

"If the fight goes on," said a heavily-associated dispatch from the Associated Press correspondent in Tours, indicating that France, wounded to the quick, may capitulate.
There was no confirmation, however, of this.
Britain Opens Chest
The Nazis' tempestuous 9-day conquest of the French capital spurred Great Britain late today to unleash all the vast wealth of her war chest for the purchase of American supplies.

Britain will now go "all out", it was said, shifting her strategy from a long war—based on hopes of ultimate exhaustion of the enemy—to meet the fury of the German blitzkrieg.

Rapidly swarming German mechanized columns poured behind the main Maginot fortifications between Paris and Montmedy to imperil from the rear the 1,000,000 French poilus manning the steel-and-concrete line.

In case of an assault from behind, it was not believed that the French could turn their Maginot guns around.

Final Pursuit Begun
"Pursuit of the enemy until final destruction has now begun," the Nazi high command declared exultantly.

The French government was reported fleeing from Tours, presumably to take refuge in Bordeaux, on France's southwest coast.

The frontal attack on the Maginot line centered in the Saar region.

Destruction of eight allied transports off Le Havre and damage to 6 others were reported by the Nazi high command, indicating heavy losses to British.

There was no confirmation, however, of this.

AUGUST DORSEY LEAPS IN FRONT OF LOG CARRIER

Effort to Leave Own Truck As Crash Looms Costs Life Near Hornbrook, Cal.
August Dorsey, 43, of Medford, driver for the Medford-Crescent City Truck Lines, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when he leaped from his semi-trailer truck directly into the path of an oncoming logging truck, about five miles north of Hornbrook, Cal., on the Pacific highway.

Dorsey was rushed to Siskiyou county hospital at Yreka, Cal., where he died of internal injuries at 4:50 p. m., two hours after the accident.

An inquest was to be held in Yreka this afternoon. The body, now in Yreka, will be shipped to Dayton, Ore., tonight for burial in the family plot.

According to Siskiyou county authorities, Dorsey was driving south on the highway with a truck load of CCC supplies for distribution to various camps in northern California.

As he rounded a curve he was confronted by a stalled truck driven by William Black, 49, of Yreka. At the same time another logging truck, operated by A. W. Hazelrigg, 26, of Yreka, pulled past the parked vehicle, blocking the road.

Apparently believing a head-on crash was unavoidable, Dorsey set the emergency brakes and leaped from the cab of his truck. He landed in front of the truck driven by Hazelrigg and was crushed under the wheels.

Ironically, Dorsey's companion in the truck, Russell Phillips, 22, of Eugene, remained in the cab and was uninjured as the truck rolled safely to a stop.

Mr. Dorsey, with his wife and five children, had resided in the Berrydale district here for the past four years, having previously lived in Klamath Falls. He was employed by the Medford-Crescent City Truck Lines to haul CCC supplies from headquarters here to the various camps in the district.

Mr. Dorsey was born in Dayton, Ore., on July 15, 1897. He is survived by his wife and the five children, Maxine, 16; Beverly, 12; Donald, 10; Dean, 8 and Barbara, 6. Mrs. Dorsey and the children were in Jacksonville today with her parents.

AT THE NATIONAL CAPITOL

Washington, D. C., June 14.—Despite demands that congress remain in session until the regular session starts next January, the legislative body will adjourn sine die this month—on June 22, if the democratic leaders have their way. Republicans, to a man, have agreed to vote to remain but unless they are reinforced by a score of democrats they cannot continue the session. Patriotism and politics are mingled in this position of the republicans—also in the position of the democratic leaders, who are following the suggestion of the president.

A great emergency may arise in the next few months and republicans (also many democrats) think congress should be in session, ready to push through any legislation the president may deem necessary. Aside from the strictly administration democrats in congress, members do not want to leave the president alone running the ship of state; they think many minds are better than one and they are opposed to the president exercising too much power. On his side, the president feels he is thoroughly competent to meet any emergency and wants the congressmen to go home.

THERE is a proposal to clothe the president with blanket powers and make the presence of congress unnecessary between adjournment and next January. As drafted, the legislation permits the president to do anything, with two exceptions; he cannot mobilize the armed forces and he cannot issue a declaration of war. These two saving clauses were written to allay the fears of those citizens who imagine that, given the opportunity, the president would not stop at "steps short of war".

Administration spokesmen say keeping congress in session will only provoke the public which will keep the speaker stirred up in a constant state of alarm. And there is something in that.

Former Medford Girl Now Chrome Queen of America

Seattle, June 14.—(AP)—Only a few years away from a $135-a-month government secretary's desk, 28-year-old Mrs. William Moroney of San Francisco could lay claim today to the title of "Chrome Queen of America".

The attractive young business woman, just returned from Alaska, reported she had the decks virtually cleared for delivery of 25,000 tons of the gleaming metal to the government under an $843,600 contract. The "decks", in this case, still must be swept clean of a score or more feet of Alaskan snow.

She said production at her big Kenai Peninsula mine should start within six weeks with a crew of 80 men. Delivery must be completed in six months.

Mrs. Moroney's entry into the chrome business, rare in the United States and unique for a woman, was a matter of following in parental footsteps. Her father, the late Dr. John F. Reddy of Medford, Ore., supplied the government with chrome during the world war. He never succeeded in collecting the daughter explained, and her first chrome-plated step was in waging a one-woman fight for compensation. She won a $3,200 claim in congress last year, she said.

Then a keen business sense—or feminine intuition—led her to assume the prospect of war might again rejuvenate the chrome business, necessary for stainless steel and many military alloys.

"All the chrome had been coming from Russia, New Caledonia and Turkey," she explained. Mrs. Moroney said she recently sold one chrome mine in California for $75,000 and has others in northern California. They were among her father's holdings, but she "plunged" on her own to start buying the Alaska mine which produced during the world war.

QUICK SET-UP OF DRAFT MACHINERY WANTED BY SOME

Washington, June 14.—(AP)—A proposal that congress set up machinery immediately for drafting manpower in a national emergency, but that it retain the right to say when this machinery should be placed in operation, is being advanced in various military and congressional circles.

Advocates said that the plan would cut a month from the time required to mobilize large numbers of men in any situation which congress deemed to warrant such action.

If a selective service law were enacted now, the proponents contended, approximately 6,500 local boards necessary to help administer it could be appointed at once. Regulations and registration forms could be printed and issued to them.

The system then would be ready to swing into action at any time, on orders from Capitol Hill, and experts believe it would have the first men reaching army camps within 30 days thereafter.

There has been no indication in any quarters that the army wants to institute selective service in the near future.

NEW BRITISH FORCE HURRIED TO AID OF FALTERING FRANCE

London, June 14.—(AP)—A new British expeditionary force—new in men and material—is in France.

Some days ago, three trains loaded with fresh troops arrived at a southern port within an hour.

Many more came by truck, bus and car—and as fast as they came they boarded great gray transports which moved slowly toward France.

In rushing to France "thousands" of soldiers who had been counted upon to protect the British Isles from threatened Nazi invasion, the British government told French Premier Reynaud that "we cannot measure the various forms of tribulation which will fall upon our peoples in the near future."

BODY OF NUDE GIRL FOUND IN SHAFT OF SPOKANE ELEVATOR

Spokane, June 14.—(AP)—The unclad body of a young woman who had been fearfully beaten was discovered today in the elevator shaft of a Spokane hotel.

Coroner I. S. Collins said the young woman, apparently around 20 years old and possibly a mulatto, had been dead about a week.

He said the head was so battered and covered with blood the features were almost indistinguishable.

Only a few shreds of what had been a polka-dot dress and the cuffs at the wrists remained on the body.

An immediate autopsy was ordered.

County Prosecuting Attorney Carl Quackenbush said preliminary efforts indicated the woman had been beaten to death in the basement of the hotel and then shoved down the shaft, the bottom of which was six feet below the floor and closed off by doors.
