Many Attend the Impressive Rites Of Job's Members

On Wednesday evening at the Masonic hall, the order of Job's Daughters, Medford Bethel, installed new officers for the ensuing six months. The ceremony was beautiful and impressive and was witnessed by a large crowd of members and their friends.

Mrs. Esther Merritt Sander-son, guardian of Medford Bethel, opened the ceremony by introducing the retiring queen, Charlotte Older, who acted as installing officer. Miss Older in turn introduced those assisting in the installation. They were Colleen Stephenson, past queen, who acted as installing guide; Joyce Freed, past queen who acted as installing marshal; Elise Older, installing chaplain; Margaret Ann Brown, installing recorder; and senior and junior custodians, respectively, Mildred McKenzie and Betty Jean McKenzie.

Elsie Carleton Strang, a member of the Bethel council, was installing musician, and accompanied Mary Anne Gates, who sang several songs during the ritualistic service, adding greatly to the beauty of the occasion. Miss Gates first sang "Open the Gates of the Bethel," before the procession of officers. After the new queen, Ruth Nordwick, who looked lovely in a diaphanous dress of white net and satin, was installed, Miss Gates sang "My Task," and during the queen's procession, the church formed by the archway of gladioli formed by 16 lovely girls in pastel formal. Many Medfordites Selected in Casts Of Shakespeare

The lure of William Shakespeare's pen is by no means confining. Adequate proof of this is shown in a review of the "home residences" of players participating in the sixth annual Shakespearean productions in Ashland, slated for public presentation between August 9-17 this year.

Medford will have at least seven top-ranking actors and actresses in the Festival itself, while a number of other local citizens will be holding important places behind scenes. To date the roster of Medfordites includes Robert Shaw, Richard Schuchard, Don Shannahan, Barbara Jean Schuler, Laura Jones, Dorothy Lee and LaMerle Beck.

Miss Beck, whose 1939 portrayal of "Audrey" in "As You Like It" won widespread acclaim, is holding the same role this year and is also directing dance routines in three plays. Also assisting in production is Dorothy Pruitt, a member of the casts for the past five years, but who has temporarily stepped out of the dramatic department and into a technical position.

Three of the seven players are "old hands" at Shakespeare. To Shaw, Shannahan, Miss Lee and Mrs. Jones, however, the roles are new. But all four have shown considerable ability in trouts and temporary roles and Director William David Cottrell is expecting excellent results.

Also from points near here are Guy Corliss of Phoenix and Joe Beach of Jacksonville. Corliss and Beach hold leading roles in "The Merry Wives of Windsor." Beach also being seen in "As You Like It" and "The Comedy of Errors."

From out-of-town points have come several players. Hollywood is represented by Dick Farmer, Miss Harriet Eucker and J. Morgan Cook. Spokane, Wash., is represented by Doug Hubbard, while from Salem comes Miss Carol Cook. Miss Doris Wade, a former Medford girl now residing in Oceanside, Cal., is also expected to arrive here early this week to participate.

Players are expected from Portland, Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles within the next few days.

Phoenix Group Will Convene

Several members of the society met at the home of Mrs. Lloyd last Wednesday and completed their quota of sewing for China.

Item of Miss Hall Interesting Here

The following news item appearing in the Lakeview paper is of interest to the many Medford friends of Miss Pearl Hall: "Miss Pearl Hall, director in the local school system for the past six years, this week announced that she would not be a candidate to succeed herself at the annual election, which will be held Monday afternoon.

Serving as a teacher in the grades, high school and also as county school superintendent, Miss Hall has been associated with the progress of local schools for many years before her election as director.

The position of county school clerk will also come up for election.

Miss Hall is the sister of Court Hall of this city and has visited here frequently. She resides in Lakeview.
