RUMANS TOLD TO REVISE ATTITUDE
Bucharest, June 22.—(AP)—King Carol called upon Rumanians today to "revise their entire mental attitude" to conform to the new Nazi-patterned totalitarian party into whose hands the government has been placed. His aim, the king said in a radio address, will be to "put aside personal interests and aspirations in the interest of the state."
"No one must any longer think about himself, but only of Rumanian national interests," Carol said. "Its typical obligations are imposed on all Rumanians—they must work, struggle, renounce all personal interests, and sacrifice themselves to the new ideals of the people."
The king said he created the party "with the conviction that I have succeeded in realizing a totalitarian union which is so essential now, for no one knows what the future holds in store for us."

Straight-And-Narrow Styles For Fall Wear

The straight-and-narrow silhouette has conquered the fashion world.

It's quick victory surprised, even fashion experts, who had felt that the new slim line would not be accepted generally until fall.

First introduced in Paris mid-season last April and May, the straight-and-narrow won buyer approval. By way of preparing for fall acceptance, a few American stores presented experimental slim fashions in summer linens and sheer crepes. The moment they appeared the public gobbled them up.

The very women who've been heard to protest against the return of tight skirts are among the first to buy them. When a salesgirl showed a New York style leader, a full-skirted print, she objected, "But it looks so much like last year's prints. Haven't you something new?"

A slim crepe dress with a stinky little bit of fullness confined to the center front pleased her, and she bought. Now slimliners are everywhere. Unless you haven't bought yours yet.

This new silhouette is reminiscent of the styles of 1928, with skirts of chemise-like slimmness, with an easier not-so-tight look through the waist, with the waistline itself dropped an inch or two, and with seamings and pockets placed well below the belt line to emphasize the drawn-out look.

Jo Copeland, American designer, says the new silhouette is good luck for short women. It definitely makes you look taller and thinner. Tall women won't fare so well in it, though. They have all the drawn-out look they want without exaggerating it.

But most women will like the easier waistline. Miss Copeland thinks. Most women past 25 have a bit of bulge above or below the waistline, and the away-from-the-body midriff conceals bulges better than the tight-draping line of the last few years.

"You won't have to hold your breath to look nice through the middle in new clothes," Miss Copeland says.

Another good point—the slim silhouette generally means greater elegance, less fluffy ruffle "cuteness." We can wave goodbye to the cutest silhouette of all time—the dirndl, that unpronounceable peasant fashion, and all its full-skirted offspring. Only the very young look well in really full skirts, and this fall only the very young will have them.

In coats, there'll be a return of dolman sleeves and slightly bloused backs, along with straight - and - narrow skirts. Shoulders will be more natural, though still squared off with modified pads.

Need No War Demand
Springfield, Mo., June 22.—(AP)—Raymond J. Kelly, national commander of the American Legion told a group of Legionnaires ex-service men not only believe "we can stay out of this war but we demand of the president and congress that they keep us out."

Portland, June 22.—(AP)—Dave Levine, Portland, was elected president of the Oregon Association of Cleaners and Dyers at the conclusion of its annual convention today.

TIME AND PLACE ITALIAN PARLEY ARE KEPT SECRET

Rome, June 22.—(AP)—The place and time of armistice negotiations between Italian representatives and the French emissaries flown here today from Compiegne forest were kept secret tonight in Rome pending official announcement.

Italians first learned that the French had signed the terms of German armistice in a special German radio announcement at 10:45 p. m. (12:45 p. m. PST). The German broadcast said the terms could not yet be disclosed.

A later Italian radio announcement said the terms probably would fall into three groups:

1. German occupation of France's English channel ports until the war with England is ended.

2. Military measures to assure that the French will not aid Britain.

3. Economic measures in preparation for peace in which reparations will be made to Germany for "the wrongs she suffered" at the end of the world war.

Congress Votes 8 Day Recess
Washington, June 22.—(AP)—Congress quit tonight for a one-week recess after sending to the White House a billion-dollar tax bill and over $4,000,000,000 of appropriations legislation.

A scattering of "noes" came from the Republican side when the house adopted the resolution which closed a 10-hour day for the legislators, and recessed congress until July 1.

Acting swiftly on one item after another, the senate and house sent to President Roosevelt a score of bills during the day, including a $1,768,913,908 emergency defense measure and the annual appropriations for relief, the labor department and the federal security agency.

Need No War Demand
Springfield, Mo., June 22.—(AP)—Raymond J. Kelly, national commander of the American Legion told a group of Legionnaires ex-service men not only believe "we can stay out of this war but we demand of the president and congress that they keep us out."

The "Wizard of MENLO PARK"
Ninety-three years ago the inventor of the electric light was born. Nine years ago, at the age of 84, he died. That is a long span of life, true enough—yet how much he achieved in his years among us. If not for him, we would not have the bright illumination which makes our nights so beautiful; the current which sets our modern appliances to work saving time and labor; the power which keeps the wheels of industry whirring. Without him, we might not have known the joys of music of the past and present, as it is now attainable to us on that seeming instrument of wizardry—the radio-phonograph. It has been said of Edison—"He left the world a better place to live in," and for that the world shall reverse his memory through all the years to come.
