

To You — From Washington by Ethelyn Evans

Washington, D. C.—(Sp.)—“4-H club” youngsters have been all over the place! And what a fine lot they were—and what a welcome contrast to the “Youth Congress,” “Youth Council,” “Student Union” mobs we have been contending with! Would that every Oregon 4-H'er could have been here—camped almost in the back yard of the White House. President and Mrs. Roosevelt drove down for a friendly chat, but they were not the only visitors. All of us, from cabinet officials on down, made the rounds.

In the heat of the day they rolled up the walls of their tents, and such a spick-and-span, apple-pie orderliness I never did see—white sheets on the cots, an everything. “Old Glory” was openly, frankly honored by these nation-wide clubs, and they acknowledged the privilege and duty to defend it and the homeland—preferably by building fine, loyal citizens, but also by fighting, if necessary.

THE annual “White House” reception and dance for new-folk, plus husband, wife, best girl or escort, played in luck this year—a beautiful, clear, cool night. Mrs. Roosevelt stood alone in the foyer and received the more than 1700 guests. From there we passed on into the East Room where the President sat, surrounded by palms, ferns, aides and secret service men. We noticed the latter's sharpest glances were directed toward the “men”—two would be hard for a woman to conceal any kind of a deadly “weapon” when wearing one of our modern evening gowns.

One woman was so busy looking in all directions at once that she passed the President's extended hand. When nudged by a friend, she gasped: “Oh, my, there you are!” A large orchestra played in the East Room for dancing, but many went on through opened French windows to the fern-banked roof of the conservatories, for a promenade or to sit chatting in the moonlight. All the official rooms were filled with talkative groups which overflowed onto the south portico and thence to the gardens and lawns, many taking a sight-seeing trip to the President's swimming pool where the water is colored by blue-green lights in the bottom.

COLD drinks and light refreshments were available all evening, and the late buffet supper was the usual cold cut, chicken salad, potato chips and roll. Harlan Miller notwithstanding, people not only walked on the Great Seal of the United States, imbedded in the floor of the foyer, but they stood upon it while eating and drinking. I couldn't like that much—being funny that way! Many leading newswriters were conspicuously absent, being forced to hang over wires bringing terrible news of the war. A number of these had gotten permission to transfer their invitations to members of the family—children and even a few adolescent grandchildren. These young people were having a grand time—but, under the festive appearances, the atmosphere was tense.

THE President again demonstrated his remarkable recuperative powers. Whereas but a day or so before at a garden party he had looked weary and worried, he radiated pep, vitality and cheer at this reception. He did, however, retire to his study very early, but Mrs. Roosevelt was everywhere, extending gracious hospitality. Most of the official cabinet and their wives attended Mrs. Woodring and Mrs. Edison coming without their husbands, the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy.

In the crowd was Clarence Streit of “Union Now” fame. Seemingly not so long ago I heard his book reviewed by his brother, who stated that Clarence Streit had been forced to charge a high fee for his lectures—to cut down the many requests. Also, that large contributions of money and offers of help were rolling into their headquarters here. All that is changed now. Since few democracies remain to form his proposed union, no doubt the bottom has dropped out of his organization.

Army Girls Unnoticed West Country, Eng. (Sp.)—The auxiliary territorial service division attached to an army camp in the west country can curl their hair and powder their noses and look as attractive as they like. But it is wasted effort. The men must—on command—ignore their existence.

FOUR DIE IN CRASH OF PRIVATE PLANE

Elk City, Idaho, June 24.—(Sp.)—Robert Gardner, civil aeronautics authority official, was expected to reach Elk City from Spokane today to investigate the airplane crash which took the lives of pilot DeWayne Chenoweth of Orofino and his three passengers yesterday afternoon.

Rodney Tanner, 25, of Golden, and James L. Turkington, 30, of Grangeville, were dead when taken from the wreckage of the cabin monoplane which crashed in a pasture during the Elk City rodeo.

Chenoweth, about 36, died an hour later in a truck physicians had commandeered as a first aid shelter.

The third passenger, Leslie W. Last, about 36, of Kamiah, died seven hours after the accident at a Grangeville hospital.

Closing time for Too Late to Classify Ads is 1:30 p. m.
