"Four Sons" Coming to Craterian

Pitting brother against brother is but one of the many ways that the subversive "5th Column" destroys not only family but nations as well. In "Four Sons" coming to the Craterian theater tomorrow for a four-day showing, Don Ameche and Alan Curtis are brothers who, following blindly the information given them by the Nazi agents, come to blows over the same girl—Mary Beth Hughes, Robert Lowery and George Ernest are the other two brothers, with Eugenie Leontovich, Lionel Royce and Sig Rumann also featured.

In Air Drama

With Dennis Morgan as a transport pilot, Virginia Bruce and Jane Wyman as a couple of career girls of the skyways—air hostesses—"Flight Angels" tops the twin bill showing today and tomorrow only at the New Rialto theater. Ralph Bellamy and Wayne Morris are also featured in this swiftly paced story of the air. Comedy, adventure and romance are blended in a way that spells entertainment from start to finish. "Beyond Tomorrow," one of the most unusual stories ever attempted on the screen, plays as the companion feature.
