

IDEAL CONDITIONS EXIST IN FORESTS FOR RECREATION

Public Cooperation Sought As National Fire Laws Go Into Effect July 1

The following recreational bulletin was issued today by Rogue River national forest headquarters:

"Road and camping conditions in the Rogue River national forest are ideal. Shasta lilies in the higher elevations and tiger lilies lower down are especially beautiful now, combined with brighter-colored flowers.

"Fishing continues good in most of the streams and lakes. In the upper Rogue river and its tributaries, particularly the upper stretches of Muir Union, Foster, Copeland, and Mill creeks, trout are rising best to grasshoppers and flies, eggs and worms also being good. Fish lake is only fair. At Fourmile lake good catches of silverides are being taken by still fishing with cluster eggs, a few rainbow are being taken with buck-tail flies.

Boats Available

"At Hyatt lake boats and supplies are available and bass fishing is considerably improved, particularly with live bait near the shore. Very few croppies and catfish are being caught at Hyatt. At Rocky Point on Klamath lake, bait fishing is poor but trolling for rainbow is bringing good results. Several limit catches have been reported during the past week at Seven lakes. The upper mountain streams in that district, including the south fork of Rogue river, are also good. The Applegate river and its tributary streams are yielding good catches with benny whippies and flies. Good catches are also reported from Squaw lake.

"In the Rogue river outside the national forest, the summer run of steelhead has not come but between Rogue Elk and Happy Camp a few are rising to royal coachman. Limit catches of trout are being taken on royal coachman and gray hackle flies in the river near Trail and Edgewood park, but the fish are smaller than usual. The river is at practically mid-summer low level.

Horses For Rent

"The Ashland Loop road has now been graded and offers delightful forest drive, with camping or picnicking facilities at several points along the route. At Lake of the Woods saddle horses are now available for rent, either by the hour or for special guided trips to the Mountain Lake primitive area and over the Skyline trail.

"Fire laws governing the use of national forest lands become effective July 1. The law requires permits for campfires except in safe stoves or at posted forest camps. The law prohibits leaving any fire to burn unattended or failure to extinguish it before leaving. Each camper, except in posted camps, is required to carry an axe, a shovel and a water container. Smoking while traveling in timber or brush areas, except on paved or surfaced highways, is prohibited. The cooperation of all forest users is especially requested during the coming holiday week."

R. H. BRADSHAW OF BROWNSBORO DIES

R. H. Bradshaw of Brownsboro died early this morning in a local hospital after a brief illness.

Funeral arrangements were to be made by Perl's.

PLANNING COMMISSION OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

The Medford city planning commission, meeting in the city hall last night, re-elected Bernard Roberts, president; O. J. Gould, vice president, and Ralph Woodford, secretary, for the coming year.

Only business transacted by the commission, other than the election of officers, was to authorize the construction of a temporary fruit stand by C. B. Edwards at 914 North Riverside avenue.

Restrictions Urged
Pittsburgh (U.P.) — War toys should be kept from the hands of young children, believes Anne Farrell, toy designer. She recently returned from Sweden where she was called to design playthings used in experimental education.
