

EUGENE MOTHER WINS $10,000 IN WRITING CONTEST

1940 Atlantic Novel Prize Goes to Mrs. Antonina Riasanovsky, Ex-Russian

Boston, June 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Antonina Riasanovsky of Eugene, Ore., mother of two young sons, won the 1940 Atlantic novel prize of $10,000 today with her novel "The Family," a story from her own life, the tale of an exiled White Russian family set against the background of Tientsin, China.

It was her first novel and will be brought out by Little, Brown & company next September under the pen name "Nina Fedorova."

The $10,000 prize is offered jointly by the Atlantic Monthly Press and Little, Brown & company, half the amount awarded as an outright prize and the other half paid at the same time on advance of royalties.

Old Fashioned Here to collect the reward she described herself as "old-fashioned."

"I do not drink or smoke and I do not dance," she said. "I like classic literature and music. I do not follow the fashion strictly. I am a great reader, have a passion for it, and fortunately can read in several languages."

"I like quiet life, life in a small town with big libraries and I hate noise and too much of movement. I have been happiest writing in America."

As in her book the author is a White Russian who lived in Tientsin after she was forced to leave her native country. She has been living in the United States since 1938 and took out her citizenship papers shortly after her arrival here.

'HAM AND EGGS' MISSES BALLOT

Sacramento, Cal., June 28.—(AP)—Californians will not have a chance to vote next November on the "ham and eggs" old age pension plan which they have twice defeated. The initiative failed to qualify by midnight for the ballot.

Deputy Secretary of State Charles Hagerly said the petitions still lacked 1,950 signatures after a batch of 43,490 names arrived by plane from Los Angeles at 11 p. m.

The previous "ham and eggs" proposal called for $30 every Thursday for persons over 50. The 1940 revised plan would have given $20, with a smaller portion for young folk in college.
