

OREGONIAN CHOSEN AS RUNNING MATE ON INITIAL BALLOT

 Hatch political practices act. He declared he wanted no large contributions. He said the maximum would be $5,000.
 "I hope," he added, "that the contributions will be small and widely diffused."
 Newsmen recalled that he once had described the 1932 Democratic platform as the "best ever written." He still subscribes to that view, he declared.
Wholehearted G. O. P.
 Quickly he emphasized, however, that he was going to campaign wholeheartedly on the Republican platform.
 The nominee said he planned to leave Philadelphia tomorrow for New York to spend the weekend with Roy Howard, newspaper publisher, aboard the latter's yacht.

 As the delegates streamed into the hall again for the convention's last session, all talk was about giving the vice-presidential nomination to Senator Charles L. McNary, the kindly Oregonian, who has been Republican leader of the senate for many sessions.
 Willkie was reported to want him, and that was enough to suit the crowd.
 Since the early morning nomination, big (three inches in diameter) campaign buttons saying "Willkie for President," had made their appearance. Some were even larger; one delegate helping to haul a big portrait of the candidate about the hall had stuck in his lapel a "Willkie for President" button as big as a White House dinner plate.

In Gay Mood
 After the selection of a presidential nominee, the tension had noticeably let down. Everyone was in a gay mood, laughing and talking in the aisles.
 It was apparent that whether he liked it or not, Willkie's campaign song had just about been picked out for him. It was "Heigh-ho, Heigh-ho, It's Back to Work We Go," and continued: "With Wendell Willkie leading us, the jobs will grow."
 The band played the refrain over and over, and printed copies of the parody on the song of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" were scattered about the hall.

Representative Harold Knutson of Minnesota came forward after Connecticut had yielded to Minnesota on the roll call for vice presidential nominations.
 Knutson, who had signed a statement a few days ago interpreted as opposing the nomination of Willkie, now called him "a great and outstanding American," who would "lead us to victory in November."
 Knutson nominated Rep. Dewey Short of Missouri for vice president.

McNary Nominated
 W. S. Moscrip of Lake Elmo, Minn., next nominated McNary. He said there was "some question whether he should draft him from the senate" but that "in this crisis" it was necessary.
 A great cheer went up at the mention of McNary's name. The first seconding speech was made by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, who had helped start the big stampede to Willkie last night when he released his Michigan delegation from its pledge to support himself.
 "Wendell Willkie has captured the imagination of the American people," Vandenberg said at the outset. "He has captured their hearts, he has captured their confidence, and he will capture their votes."
 "After he has captured their votes we shall recapture confidence and peace and prosperity for America."
 Others who seconded McNary were:

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, State Senator Walter Jones of Hutchinson, Kas., former Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania.
 Philadelphia, June 28.—(AP)—Wendell Willkie, the business man who mused his hair and turned into a politician overnight, won the Republican presidential nomination today after the wildest balloting spree of any recent convention.
 He wrested the title from whooping delegates on the sixth ballot shortly after midnight. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, his forces badly battered, and Senator Vandenberg of Michigan had freed their supporters to join the mad rush toward the blunt-speaking New York utilities executive.

Particularly is this true in the West, with its vast coast-line and its borders of magnificent distances. For tankers move oils and gasoline at one-seventh the cost of doing it by pipeline—the next least expensive method.

 Even those Western motorists who live inland benefit constantly from the foresight which led this Company years ago to establish an economical tanker fleet—and to keep it up to snuff. Only the other day its oldest tanker was retired—to be replaced by another ultra-modern vessel which—if you gave it enough time—could move all the wine in France.

LINDBERGH SPEAKS—Charles A. Lindbergh, the "Lone Eagle" whose every public speech seems to be attended by both censure and praise is shown in his latest photo at the "mike." His recent speech, urging that U. S. stop what he called "this trend" toward involvement in Europe's war, drew a sharp reply from Sen. Key Pittman, who lamented the arousing of "war fears."

Senator Taft of Ohio, his lines crumbling in the stampede, finally fell before the onrush. Then the result was declared unanimous.
 The 48-year-old Willkie, never before a candidate for public office, leaped of his nomination in his hotel suite, crowded with enthusiastic friends.
 "I am very appreciative, I'm very humble, and very proud," he said.
 "I intend to give everything I have to bring about American prosperity, building an adequate national defense and restoring national unity."
 One by one, Willkie bowed over the "favorite sons" in the early balloting. Then his drive went into the camps of the men who three weeks ago had been favored to win the nomination.

Dewey Goes First
 First Dewey's lines began to tremble and crack. Dewey released his delegates on the fifth ballot, and there was a drive for Taft, with the workers of Herbert Hoover aiding in the push. But it failed.
 The thousands in the galleries, hoarse from hours of shouting "We want Willkie," took up the chant again. Delegations that hesitated or turned against Willkie were booed; then cheered to a rafter-shaking eco when they turned back to him.
 His nomination went over in the middle of the sixth roll call of the longest nominating fight the Republicans have had since Warren G. Harding was nominated in 1920. Once, as the lines tightened, a delegate sought to move a recess. But Chairman Martin drove them ahead.

BRITISH SITUATION NOT SO SERIOUS IS WORD FROM ISLES

Conditions in Great Britain are not so black as the official German radio paints them, according to a letter received by Mrs. S. E. Oliver of Katherine Court, 825 West 11th street, from her brother William Conroy of New Castle, England. The letter was written about two weeks ago.
 Mr. Conroy, a radio technician, said that "if you did not know otherwise, you would not know we are at war. When the German radio announces we are starving and New Castle and other cities are in ruins, just grin and say 'Oh, yeah?' because if you believe the enemy his lies have borne fruit."
 "We are rationed on certain things but the amount of food we get is normal," the letter continued.

"Before I close this letter, I want to impress on you not to be alarmed about us in England and not to worry about our peril or about what the Germans are going to do to us. If the worst comes to the worst, we can easily pay them back with interest."

Let's Make It Last Forever

LIBERTY IS THE blood stream of America. It is what makes this country young, virile, progressive. It builds in people initiative, ingenuity, resourcefulness. It is the strength of a nation at peace.

YET LIBERTY IS fragile as a flower. It needs constant cultivation, pampered care and the constant pruning off of those few malcontents who constantly take liberties without taking Liberty to their hearts. So hard to get—so easy to lose! Retaining Liberty is worth the effort of all of us.

This Store Will Be Closed Thursday. Let's Make This Fourth a Real Holiday!

Give employees the Liberty they deserve on Holidays and Sundays. For years we have fought our little battle for Sunday and Holiday closing. We will continue to fight for what we believe is fair and right.
