

Applegate Census Counter Gains Family Life Insight

By Maude Pool
Mail Tribune Special Writer

Big Applegate, June 28—(Sp)—Miss Billie Rippey, census enumerator for the Applegate district, didn't just count noses when she went about her job, but she took a little peek behind the scenes, and has brought forth glowing accounts of her fellow beings that have merited comment from W. L. Austin, director of the census in Washington, D. C.

Miss Rippey wrote a summary of her observations which has been accepted for use in a symposium of first hand information to be applied in preparing for future field work and other activities in connection with the census, it was stated in the letter she received from Mr. Austin. It was understood that the information will be available for publication in national magazines in the future.

Bl of Norway
Houses were interesting; there was one, set under big pine trees, built by a Norwegian lady. It was made of large logs, and the interior, outside of modernization, was a replica of her home in Norway. There was usually someone home in the forenoon. Afternoons were bad, but in rural communities you can usually plan on chore time—and meal time.

Poverty was not uncommon. But of dirt and filth there was none. Many a housekeeper could well be envious of the spotlessness of a miner's cabin. Every one was pleasant and willing to answer all questions. I was asked into every house, invited to meals, and asked to return and visit when my work was finished. My opinion was asked on everything from livestock, babies, and cars to "is there gold in that tar ledge?" I was offered one little pig, one lamb, one kid, and two ducks.

1,320 Counted
In all I enumerated 1,320 persons, 350 families, 177 farms, 434 houses.

It is a grand thing to meet cheerful people, all looking to the future, with heads up, courageous, making the most of the little they have, not whining, but glorying in their freedom and independence and knowing it is the greatest country of them all.

I hope in 1950 I can once again be a "nose-counter-upper."

LIGHTNING BOLT SCORES DOUBLE PLAY ON FARM

Marietta, Ohio, June 28—(P)—A bolt of lightning shot into Mrs. Pete Silvus' kitchen, knocked a skillet from her hand, jumped to a nearby field and knocked a pitchfork from her husband's grasp. The husband escaped injury, but Mrs. Silvus was burned severely.

Freight Cut Balked

Washington, June 28—(P)—The interstate commerce commission refused today to permit four railroads to make reductions of five to 37 cents per hundred pounds in freight rates on mixed carload shipments of merchandise between Seattle and Tacoma, Wash., and Portland, Ore., Columbia Junction, Longview, and Vancouver, Wn.

Armless, Legless, Active
Linden, Ala. (AP)—Charles Rentz is an unusual fellow. Born without arms below his elbows and without legs below his knees, he can drive an automobile, play a piano, use a typewriter and adding machine—and role his own cigarettes.

Weather
