FAMILY HIT BY FIRE IN NEED OF CLOTHING AND BEDDING, IS WORD

A family of eight, whose house and most of their possessions were destroyed by fire last week, are sorely in need of clothing for a six-year-old boy, a pair of size 8 shoes for a lad of 16, bedding and a mattress, and anybody desiring to aid the family is asked to contact Capt. Charles K. Cox at Salvation Army headquarters, 236 North Bartlett street.

The four other children in the family have been "fairly well taken care of" by neighbors and the Red Cross, Capt. Cox explained. He added that the 16-year-old boy could use various articles of clothing, in addition to the shoes, and that the mother of the family would appreciate some fruit jars.

The family, Capt. Cox said, managed to save only their washing machine and a few other bits of furniture in the fire, but that they believed they could get along all right with the clothing for the two boys and the bedding and mattress. The family plans to move into a small cabin this week. Although not employed at present, the father has a promise of a job, Capt. Cox stated, and added that the Salvation Army would accept donations for the family.

KIWANIANS VISIT A-ONE BREWERY IN PLANT TOURS

Kiwanians initiated a new program of familiarizing themselves with local industries last night when they met at the local plant of the A-One Brewing company as guests of S. A. Kroschel, manager. Adolph Bender Jr., plant brewmaster, acted as guide for the party and explained the intricate processing of the brew.

The visitors were particularly impressed with the completeness of the equipment and the particular care given to sanitation of the brewing tanks and bottling equipment in order to maintain and insure the purity of the finished product.

Blending of the hops, malt, and yeast and effects of the various ingredients on the finished product were discussed as technical problems by the brewmaster as he initiated the local service club members into some of the mysteries surrounding production of a uniform product.

Although the local brewery is a large consumer of southern Oregon hops, the plant also uses hops grown in other sections of Oregon and Washington. A-One brew is made with Czechoslovakian hops which account for its unique bouquet and flavor. Following the tour of the plant, the Kiwanians and their guests were regaled with a "dutch lunch" supplemented with samples of A-One brew for those who cared to partake.

The local service club has initiated this program of visiting local plants with the idea of encouraging home grown industry and payrolls by familiarizing themselves with the problems and the products of local industry. Response to the program has been enthusiastic and it is anticipated that the Kiwanian support may lend material aid to promotion of the use of local products which contribute so heavily to local payrolls and so build the future of southern Oregon.
