VOCATION SERVICE SUBJECT OF TALKS AT ROTARY MEET

A meeting devoted to a discussion of vocation service was arranged by Dr. W. W. P. Holt for the Medford Rotary club's luncheon-meeting Tuesday at the Hotel Medford. Dr. Holt called upon three members of the club to outline vocational service as applying to various phases of business and professional activities.

First speaker was Dr. B. L. Lageson who explained how the dental profession seeks to advance the ethics and service of members through local, state and national organizations. Activities of the Southern Oregon Dental society, the Oregon Dental association and the American Dental association were briefly discussed.

Relations between seller and buyer in the business field were the subject of Harold Larsen's contribution to the program. "While generally the business man enjoys pleasant contacts with his patrons there are, in some instances, cases where controversy arises. The slogan 'the customer is always right' has been adopted by most concerns although obviously this is not always true," Mr. Larsen said. The Rotary slogan "He profits most who serves best," was offered by the speaker as a guiding policy for successful business.

Relations between employer and employee were the topic of the concluding speaker, W. A. Gates. More home chores for boys so that youngsters may have a knowledge of work and know the meaning of discipline were urged by Mr. Gates. "The employer should treat his employee as he would want to be treated himself," he said. The worker should have pride in his work and should be so treated by the boss that he will be cheerful and courteous in his treatment of customers.
