

APPEASEMENT OF BUSINESS HOPED IF TEXAN NAMED

Roosevelt. But he evidently was determined upon a "business appeasement" candidate for second place on the ticket and has picked Jones, Texas banker and business leader, as the man.

Increasing prospects of a fight over the vice presidency promised to make later sessions of the convention more lively. The sure-thing nature of the impending Roosevelt renomination has made the sessions rather listless so far. But the mention of the president's name at today's session brought a burst of applause and a few cheers. The speaker was Mrs. Thomas F. McAllister, director of the women's division of the national committee.

She said Democratic women opposed war and trusted Mr. Roosevelt's leadership in foreign affairs.

To Offset Willkie

Farley's plan to nominate Jones for vice president was interpreted as an effort to offset the business appeal of Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican presidential candidate, who resigned a $75,000,000-a-year job as head of Commonwealth & Southern corporation to make the race.

Farley's decision to back Jones might narrow the vice presidential maneuvering down to two Texans principally. Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins, director of Roosevelt third-term strategy here, was reported to be considering Rep. Sam Rayburn, the Democratic leader of the house, for the post.

But many other candidates still were working hard and were hopeful of coming out on top in the scramble.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Mr. Roosevelt's first choice for vice president, was reported to have refused to make the race. Farley told friends today that he believed Hull should continue as secretary of state. He said he believed that if the international crisis required a third term for the president, the same argument applied with equal force to the secretary of state.

Farley May Delay

If Hopkins, with Mr. Roosevelt's backing, attempts to nominate Rayburn and Farley continues to back Jones, the convention will have an opportunity to give the party chairman one last vote of confidence before he steps out of politics by nominating Jones.

It was reported that Farley may have agreed to a plan to retain the national committee chairmanship until September 1, instead of quitting immediately after the convention to become president of the New York Yankees baseball club.

Even so, it is likely that the new chairman will be elected here on Saturday. He would serve with Farley during the ensuing interval to learn the committee business.

The morning convention session was brief.

Mrs. McAllister eulogized the leadership of Mr. Roosevelt and mentioned the name of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt for the first time in the Democratic proceedings. Mention of the first lady drew applause.

Rep. Arthur W. Mitchell of Illinois, only Negro member of congress, predicted that eight of 10 Negroes who vote in November would vote for Mr. Roosevelt.

JIMMY ROOSEVELT TO DISTRIBUTE BRITISH ANTI-GERMAN MOVIE

Roosevelt acquired the rights after a private showing of the film had impressed him. He arranged a screening for Mrs. Roosevelt, but offered at once to assist in its presentation, without compensation.

The film is patterned after the case of the Rev. Martin Niemoller, German pastor, who was interned in a concentration camp after expressing from the pulpit of his church his opposition to certain Nazi policies, particularly the treatment of Jews.

Nine lightning strikes on the Rogue River national forest were reported by lookouts after the electric storm late yesterday afternoon. Two were in the Applegate district, three in the Butte Falls district and four in the Lake O' Woods district. Crews were sent to each last evening.

The crews reported back to headquarters here today that one of the Applegate fires was confined to a single tree and that two of the four reported in Lake O' Woods district could not be found. It was thought at headquarters that probably only superficial fires developed from some of the lightning strikes and went out by themselves.
