FIGHT-TO-FINISH DESPITE HITLER'S SPEECH IS AHEAD

By DeWitt MacKenzie
Hitler's peace-speech leaves the situation just where it was, unless the British government sues for terms—something which Premier Churchill less than a week ago declared never would happen.
This being the case Europe must endure a conflict which, as Hitler says, "can end only with the complete annihilation of one or the other of the two adversaries."
Well, that's what this war started out to be—a fight to a finish between Germany and England—and that's likely to be the way it winds up.

The Nazi chiefwain says he knows that this "will bring up on the people unending suffering and misery" but that he has relieved his "conscience towards the things that will then come, that is if this last appeal to reason is unheeded by England."
The reichstag speech also was intended as a tonic for the German people. Win or lose, I think they have hard times ahead of them.
But besides this, I can't escape the feeling that Hitler would give me if he could secure peace at this time. Of course, it would be on his terms, but he could afford to make heavy concessions to Britain if he could keep his present conquests without having to fight further to hold them.

He says he is going to win, and he certainly has a right to a great degree of confidence. The odds perhaps are in his favor.
In undertaking to invade England (if he does) he will be essaying a feat which would appall the average military leader. He is, as Prime Minister Churchill has said, coming up against a man his heretofore encountered on the battlefield. Some neutral observers concede Britain a fighting chance to win. I was much struck this morning by a little item from Washington. An economic report received from Germany by the commerce department says potatoes, grain and other commodities are being grown on military airports, especially in corners and sides which can be spared from war purposes.

Of course, this doesn't mean that Germany is hungry already. It is an exhibition of German efficiency. Still, such extreme measures bespeak a fear of the future. Over Germany, as well as the rest of the continent, hangs the threat of the hunger which overtook the reich in the world war and forced its surrender.

CONGRESSMEN TO DO CAMPAIGNING AT THEIR DESKS

Washington, July 19.—(AP)—Taking their cue from President Roosevelt, most members of congress talked today of combining a national political campaign with a continuous session of congress.

"I pity anybody who proposes to adjourn with the present temper of the country," said Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.)
From the Democratic camp, Senator George (D., Ga.) indicated that the pending "excess profits" tax proposal, compulsory military training, and an assortment of defensive measures would keep legislative machinery busy many weeks.

With both major political conventions out of the way, congress will reassemble Monday after nearly a month of slight activity. First was a week recess for the Republican convention at Philadelphia and more recently the 10-day interlude for the Democratic sessions at Chicago.

House members centered attention on new tax levies aimed at any heavy profits created by the multi-billion dollar preparedness programs and intended to supplement the $1,000,000,000 "national defense" tax measure recently rushed through congress.
On the senate side, Democratic leader Barkley (D., Ky.) and Republican leader McNary (R., Ore.) had a "gentlemen's agreement" that no important legislation would be acted upon next week.

McNary, the Republican candidate for vice president, has scores of personal details to handle while Barkley, along with many other Democrats, needs a few days to recuperate from the Chicago convention.
