

PAINTERS UNION IN SECOND MEET CITES PURPOSES

The painters and decorators union held their second open meeting Thursday evening at the Labor Temple. The meeting was presided over by Fred Lawrence, president.

Several new applications for membership were received by the union's secretary, Joseph Marsh.

Purpose of the two meetings was a better understanding between the master painters of Medford and the journeymen.

It was decided that a complete reorganization at this time was necessary to give the journeymen work practically all season, thereby eliminating unemployment among the painters.

It was further decided that all painting jobs should be given to local responsible contractors.

Contractors who carry full liability on other people's property, carry state accident compensation to protect their men from personal injury and who carry state unemployment insurance to keep the journeyman off relief or WPA during the slack season are the men who are an asset to our city and state, because they are carrying the burden which ultimately falls upon the city, it was pointed out.

A state license law, coming before the next legislature, was discussed and approved by the master painters and journeymen alike. Should this law be passed, steps will be taken to obtain a local ordinance and license, thereby keeping local painting for Medford painters.

New Craig Service Stations Opening

Two new Craig service stations were opened in southern Oregon today at the corner of the Pacific highway and south Central in Medford and 476 north Main in Ashland. The company recently opened a station in Klamath Falls.

Craig's feature only one grade of Hancock gasoline. The Medford station, which is located in the triangle where south Central joins the highway, is arranged for easy approach and quick service. There is plenty of drive-in room from every direction.

C. BATEMAN SOLE RIVERSIDE OWNER

Charles Bateman, co-owner of the Riverside market for the past four years, announced today that he has purchased the interest of Norman Gail and he is now sole owner of the North Riverside food store.

The market was opened four years ago by Bateman and Gail. The present space is more than double that of the original store and a complete meat department has been added. The complete food market now has eight full-time employees.

Earl Coss, formerly manager of the Gold Hill market, which was owned and operated by Bateman and Coss, is now with the Riverside market. There will be no other changes in personnel, according to Mr. Bateman. He plans to continue the present policies of the market.

Norman Gail has purchased the Gold Hill market from Bateman and Coss and he has also purchased Bateman's interest in the Wimer store. Mr. and Mrs. Gail have moved to Gold Hill.
