

BYRD SURVEYS DUE TO SOLVE POLAR RIDDLE

Antarctic Parties Await Passing of Night to Start Charting Mission.

By Otto Janssen
Washington (AP)—In the frigid wastes of the vast antarctic region, two little bands of men, separated by 1,600 miles of uncharted snow and ice, are waiting for the long polar night to end to resume their search for an unknown coast.

One group, headed by Richard B. Black of the department of interior, is waiting at a base 800 miles south of the southernmost point of South America, at Marguerite bay, in Palmer Land. There are 23 men and 80 dogs at that location.

Across the ice, 1,600 miles to the west is the other group of 33 men and a number of dogs. Their camp is at Little America on the Ross barrier—a floating ice sheet several hundred miles long and some 40 feet thick. This is approximately 2,000 miles south and east of New Zealand.

The principal task of these groups—constituting the expedition of the U. S. Antarctic Service headed by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd—is to chart the coastline lying between their two bases.

A section in the middle, about 900 miles long, was charted last year, but another 600 miles remains to be mapped.

The group at Marguerite bay is expected to start sooner than the other because it is farther from the pole and hence the night ends earlier. The men at the Little America base must wait until probably October.

When their job is completed, virtually the entire coastline of the immense continent at the "bottom of the world," will be known, and this country's claim to a share in Antarctica, when this is made, will be strengthened considerably.

Both groups will use dog sleds and airplanes in making their surveys. Black's party probably faces the more difficult job, for in its path is one ice-covered bay, deeply crevassed, and beyond that is a range of mountains some 9,000 feet high.

Author Robert Service In Canada as Refugee

An Eastern Canadian Port, Aug. 2—(AP)—Robert W. Service 66, who wrote "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" and numerous other popular rhymes of the Yukon, returned to Canada today as a war refugee after an absence of 28 years.

He was in Russia when the war started. After many difficulties he reached France, but fled when the Nazis swept down the coast of Brittany.

HOP MARKET PROGRAM IN EFFECT AUGUST 5

Washington, Aug. 2—(AP)—The agriculture department announced today that a new federal marketing agreement program for hops produced in Oregon, California and Washington would become effective August 5. The program, which replaces a similar one in operation last year, sets up a machinery for controlling hop supplies during the 1940-41 and the 1941-42 marketing seasons.

Last year cars operated by the Pullman company traveled an average distance equal to 50 trips between New York and San Francisco.

STRIPES OF ZEBRA USED AS PATTERN TO CONSERVE SOIL

Waste of Land is Stopped
By Following Markings
Of Animal in Terracing.

AP Feature Service
Odenton, Md.—A zebra taught Dr. M. B. Waite how to terrace his farm.

From a zebra he learned how to stop the waste of precious, life-giving topsoil, through erosion and now he's growing daffodils and tobacco.

The "zebra clue" came in building terraces—parallel, curving steps or basins around hillsides to lead off rainwater slowly and safely.

By time-honored fashion, farmers plow, even on steep hills, in straight furrows. But these are perfect "channels" for heavy rains to rush down, gouging away the topsoil.

Back in 1907 Dr. Waite—who retired five years ago as a U. S. department of agriculture plant pathologist—plowed to build terraces that followed the contour of the hill. Each terrace was to have a gradual downward incline.

But he would meet little hills or bumps that would force the terraces to go up.

When To Quit
One day at a zoo he noticed zebras have curving, parallel stripes. Sometimes a stripe ended abruptly, or tapered off.

Why not, he decided, simply stop a terrace when it came to an elevation, and let the water it was draining flow down to the next "step"? He did.

John Cotton, extension soil conservationist at the University of Maryland, credits Waite with being the first Maryland farmer to start such terraces.

Two Cash Crops
They, and other conservation steps, proved profitable for Waite. He soon had a rich, terraced peach orchard, and recently has turned mainly to growing tobacco and daffodils as a cash crop.

Terraces and most conservation practices are not new, but, Cotton said, "there is a grim re-awakening to the necessity of combatting erosion." Waite's farm, he added, illustrates that an individual can go ahead on his own without government aid to do the job.

AUTUMN BUDGET SALE

Our first carload of Gold Bar and other Canned Foods will arrive about October 1—the earliest date when all 1940 pack foods will be ready.

To those who cannot pay all at one time for the winter's supplies here is a chance to enjoy all of the price advantages of the cash buyer.

Here is the plan—Select what you will need, pay a little down and a little each pay day until the car arrives and the balance on delivery.

Here are the advantages of buying on the Groceteria Budget Plan:

- 1—You get the benefit of carlot prices and carlot freight rates.
- 2—You get as fine foods as money can buy for as little as ordinary foods cost—all 1940 pack.
- 3—You get the same quantity prices as are extended cash caselot buyers.
- 4—You get more for your money than you would get by spending in the winter for daily needs.
- 5—You will have your winter foods paid for while work is more plentiful.
- 6—To time of delivery you are protected against price advance or decline. If prices go up, you don't pay the advance. If prices go down, you get the reduction.
- 7—You may assort cases. You don't have to buy a full case of one food to get the case price.
- 8—You can snap your fingers at winter if the pantry is full.
