Billy Hulén Says:

Dick Hanen Will Participate in Tournament Here

The boys won't start teeing off for some three weeks yet but already much clubhouse talk has to do with the annual Southern Oregon-Northern California amateur tournament at the Rogue Valley Golf club, which gets under way August 30 and runs four days.

It's the major golfing event of the year in this section, and naturally the local clubbers are more than a little interested whenever up pops the name of an out-of-town star who plans to participate in the tourney, and attempt to walk off with the big prize.

Such a name which has popped up is that of Dick Hanen, the 19-year-old Marshfield youngster, who just recently reached the finals of the Washington State amateur, where he was knocked out by Scotty Campbell, the defending champion.

Hanen, according to Club Manager George Robertson, will definitely compete in the tourney. And with him will be his sponsor, North Bend's Denny Hull, who is getting along in years, but who can still make the younger boys bear down on every shot. Hull, it will be remembered, sprung the tournament's big upset last season by eliminating Hubert Bentley, 1 up, in the first round.

So the Marshfield young one will be here again and, from the manner in which he has been winning matches in the northwest this summer, it appears he will go into action as one of the heavily-backed favorites. Apparently, Hanen has improved his game tremendously and will offer a serious threat to such local shotmakers as Eddie Simmons, champion in 1939 and 1938; Leland Clark, last year's runner-up; Bob Hammond, George Harrington and other low-handicap men.

Hanen's appearance here will mark his third shot at the title. Last year he won medalist honors with a 71 and stayed in the running to the semi-finals, where he bowed out to Leland Clark, 2 and 1. And Clark, in last season's tournament, was playing probably the best golf of his career. In 1938 Hanen was beaten in the quarter-finals.

Another Bobby Feller? That's what more than one smart baseball man is saying of Sid Hudson, the 23-year-old rookie righthander Clark Griffith brought to the Washington Senators this spring from Sanford of the class D Florida State league.

Monday, he hurled his second one-hit game of the American league season, blanking Philadelphia, 11 to 0. Sam Chapman's seventh-inning single was the only hit Hudson allowed. Earlier in the year, he had a no-hitter against St. Louis until Radcliff doubled in the ninth.

The six-foot-four-inch flinger had an amazing record with Senford, winning 24 and losing four, fanning 192 and walking only 63 in 250 innings. Although that record was hung up in class D baseball, it so impressed Griffith that he bought the pitcher, along with another player, for $7,500. And the youngster has been making Griffith look very good.

Thus far with the Senators, who are in sixth place, Hudson has won 10 and lost 12. On the face of it, that isn't a brilliant record but in most of his games he either hasn't received good support or his mates didn't get him any runs. Bucky Harris, his manager, claims Hudson is the best prospect he's had under his wing since Schoolboy Rowe at Detroit in 1933.

ALBANY WARNED OF FOE'S POWER

Portland, Aug. 8.—(P)—Semi-pro Commissioner Ray Brooks, completing arrangements for the northwest baseball title series, warned the Albany Alcos today about the Gibson Cleaners of Seattle.

The Oregon champions will meet the Washington champions in the first contest of a three-game series at Albany Friday night. The winner will enter the national tournament at Wichita, Kansas.

"The Gibsons pack power in every position," Brooks reported. "They include on their roster such stars as Manager Babe Barberies, former University of Washington ace who once played with Seattle in the Coast league and who this year was named the most valuable player in the entire Washington state meet."

Mike Nazarian, villainous Armenian, will face Sgt. Bob Kenaston of Gold Hill in the middle event, and a newcomer, Jack Hagen of Shreveport, La., will appear in the opener. Lillard said he hadn't yet obtained an opponent for Hagen, but that he expected to line up a capable foe tomorrow or Saturday.

Hagen is a clean and scientific wrestler, weighs about 190 pounds and is considered one of the game's most clever matmen.

CRATERS TROUCE SATCH PAIGE AND TEAMMATES, 5 TO 2

Satchel Paige the greatest pitcher in the world? Well maybe, but to the suddenly revitalized Medford Craters last night the giant Negro was just another flinger. Yes, believe it or not, the Craters clubbed down the famous Kansas City Monarchs by a 5 to 2 count, and the losing elbow was none other than Mr. Paige.

The highly-publicized colored gentleman twirled the first three innings for the Monarchs, and when he retired in favor of Vet Barnes the score was 2 to 0, Medford, with both the local tallies being punched across in the third frame in absolutely legitimate fashion.

Paige got by the first heat OK, whiffing Lou Sauer and Al Wray, and faced only three men in the second—McLean flying out, Peccia fanning and Patterson skying to center.

But in the third the boys apparently forgot who Mr. Paige was and started teeing off. After Pacheco fanned, Calvert singled infield and Steve Crippen whacked a line single into center, sending Calvert to third. A moment later Crippen stole second, and then Calvert purloined home for the first run of the game.

Sauer, the former Albany star playing his first game for the Craters, belted a torrid single to center and Crippen raced across the plate with the second run. Wray fanned to end the inning. Thus, Paige's record for his three innings of toil was five strikeouts, three hits and two runs.

That two-run burst in the third sent the Craters off ahead, and the Monarchs were never able to catch up as Steve Crippen hurled a very, very nifty five-hit contest. The colored gents tallied once in the sixth on an error and Wilson's single to left, and another in the ninth on Waldon's double to right and two infield outs.

Crippen fooled the Monarchs with his slow stuff, seven of them striking out and only one of them walking. Waldon's double in the ninth was the only extra-base blow off Crip's baffling delivery, and the Monarchs' five hits were scattered over as many innings.

With Paige back on the bench, the Craters went right ahead making life miserable for the world colored champs. McLean opened the fourth with a single to right, went to third on an error and tallied on a fielders choice.

The Craters got their final two runs in the seventh when Riney Cook whaled a terrific home run inside the park with Calvert aboard. The latter had singled to right. Cook's drive rolled clear to the right center field boards 365 feet from the plate.

The Craters took the field with a much-revised lineup, and they showed almost unbelievable sparkle and hustle. Calvert did the catching, Cook was on third and McLean on second. Sauer was in center and Joe Peccia in left.

Medford's eight hits were accumulated like this: Cook a homer, Sauer two singles, McLean a single, Patterson a single, Calvert two singles and Crippen a single.

Score: R. H. E. Monarchs 2 5 2 Medford 5 8 3 Paige, Barnes and Robinson; Crippen and Calvert.

PASTOR AND MANAGER UNRUFFLED OVER ODDS FAVORING BILLY CONN

New York, Aug. 8.—(P)—As befits a man who has been knocked down by Joe Louis six or seven times and knows, therefore, that nothing much worse can possibly happen to him, Bob Pastor is amazingly calm about his approaching fight with Billy Conn, the lightweight champion.

Most of the ballyhoo has centered about Conn's chances of licking Louis after he has disposed of Pastor next Tuesday night. Pastor has been more or less neglected, yet he isn't resentful. He thinks it's funny. His manager, the voluble Jimmy Johnston, thinks it's crazy.

"In all my years in the game this is the silliest thing I ever ran into," said Jim. "Bob ought to be a 3 to 1 favorite over that kid from Pittsburgh. He'll probably win every round. But they've made Conn a favorite. It beats me."

BRITAIN RETALIATES FOR SHIPPING DELAY

Hongkong, Aug. 8.—(P)—Water transportation between Canton, China, and this British crown colony was halted today, at least temporarily, by British refusal to allow the entry into Hongkong of two Japanese vessels regularly engaged in the Pearl river service.

It was said unofficially that the action followed upon Japanese refusal to remove obstacles to pilotage and stevedoring which held a British steamer at Canton for a week, causing disruption of the British-operated Canton-Hongkong shipping service.

BOXMEN IN FIRST KATBALL TOURNEY CONTEST TONIGHT

The Wooden Boxmen, Medford's 1940 softball champions, will leave for Klamath Falls late this afternoon to play their first district tournament game against the Ashland Elks at 9:00 o'clock tonight. If the locals win they will advance to the finals to be staged at 9 p. m. Friday.

Ashland's championship was determined Tuesday night when the Elks defeated the Dodgers, 16 to 15.

Joe Peccia, fireballer, will hurl for the Boxmen, with Maru and Steiner in reserve. Auslund or Jean Eberhart is slated to fling for the Ashland club.

The Wooden Box team will return to Medford after the game tonight, and make the trip to Klamath Falls Friday afternoon if they get over this evening's hurdle.

Those slated to make the trip are Bob D'Arcy, Al Wray, Pat Patterson, Hank Pacheco, Darrell Leavens, Shorty Campbell, Bill Piche, Jim Boyle, Joe Peccia, Maru, Dick Porterfield, Cliff McLean, Dick Lewis, Morris Steiner and Manager J. F. Perry.

Lakeview and Klamath Falls will play the first game tonight at 7:45. Friday evening, Grants Pass will face the Klamath-Lakeview winner, at 7:45, and the victor in this game will meet the winner of tonight's Wooden Box-Ashland clash, for the district title and right to enter the state tournament.

RUBBER TREES NOT VITAL TO DEFENSE FIRESTONE CLAIMS

Akron, Ohio.—In a recent talk on rubber as it applies to national defense plans, Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., revealed that the Firestone company has been carrying on a steady experimental program with synthetic rubber since 1932. While Mr. Firestone's outlook takes into consideration all the disturbing factors of a rubber shortage, it is sufficiently reassuring to allay fears that there would be disastrous results should the major sources of crude rubber supply be cut off from the United States.

"As far back as 1933," said Mr. Firestone, "we produced synthetic rubber tires, and our company was the first to provide the U. S. armed forces with tires made from synthetic material."

"The United States is fortunate in having available within its borders all of the elements needed for the manufacture of synthetic rubber. Perhaps the most important of these is butadiene, a by-product of petroleum. Unfortunately, only a small quantity of butadiene is being made at the present and it now appears that the creation of manufacturing facilities for large quantities presents the greatest problem in connection with obtaining synthetic rubber in volume."

To take care of America's needs at the front and at home prior to a complete switch to synthetic production, the Firestone official enumerated two other steps. The first would be to conserve our stocks of crude rubber and finished products, and the second would be to undertake a vigorous campaign for the collection of old tires, tubes and other scrap from which rubber can be salvaged.

"Our annual requirements are 575,000 tons of tree-grown rubber," he said. "At the present time, the rubber industry has on hand enough raw rubber to last for three months at the current rate of consumption, with another two-month supply in transit. Stocks of tires, tubes and other products now in the hands of manufacturers and distributors are sufficient for four months more."

"Thus, our present stock of raw materials and finished products would last nine months." Considering this natural crude supply together with the greatly expanded production of reclaimed rubber and the transition to synthetic production, the effects of a major interruption in natural rubber supplies would not seem disastrous.
