PACIFIC PHONE RATE REDUCTION SOUGHT BY FCC

Would Make Company Establish Parity With Other Parts of A. T. and T.

Washington, Aug. 15.—(P)—The federal communications commission proposed today to require the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company and its subsidiaries to establish interstate rates in the territory served by it on a parity with interstate rates in other parts of the American Telephone and Telegraph system.

The commission said the so-called "interstate Pacific" scale of rates were "unjust, unreasonable and discriminatory."

The commission described "interstate Pacific" business as traffic both originating and terminating in Pacific territory. It added that the "interstate Pacific" tolls are the same as the "other interstate" schedules for distances up to 42 miles, but are generally higher for greater distances.

20 Days for Answer. The company has 20 days in which to file exception to the commission's proposed report and to request oral argument on it.

The commission said operations of the Pacific system, as a whole, have been very profitable, with net earnings during the last 15 years ranging from 5.44 per cent to 7.63 per cent of the average net book cost of telephone plant and equipment. It added that "the record indicates that future earnings will produce a higher rate of return than the average for those 15 years."

Territory served embraces Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada and that part of Idaho generally north of the Salmon river.

TESTIMONY ENDS IN STATE ACTION AGAINST NEW DAM

Testimony in the suit of the State Game Commission against the Beaver-Portland Cement company, for an injunction against the recently constructed wing dam in Rogue River near Gold Hill was completed late yesterday. The state was granted 20 days in which to file briefs, and the defense the same period.

The state contends the wing dam, constructed to furnish water for the planned new power plant, reduces the flow of the river to 125 second feet, which it held, is insufficient water for the steady migration of fish. Expert testimony contended the dam would cause the fish to congregate in the tail-race, instead of going upstream to spawning water, resulting in fish life loss.

W. H. Muirhead, general manager of the cement company, testified a willingness on the part of his company to follow suggestions of the fish commission to remedy conditions they opposed.

Other witnesses called by the defense yesterday were E. C. Gillenwater, Harry Newnam, H. D. Cameron, P. W. Allen, and J. R. Ritter, who testified as to the state of the water, and its effects on fish life.

RUCH BRUSH FIRE BELIEVED CAUSED BY BEE HUNTERS

Forest fires have been blamed on quail hunters, pheasant hunters, deer hunters, elk hunters, bear hunters, cougar hunters, bobcat hunters and coyote hunters. And today Rogue River national forest headquarters chalked up a fire against a bee hunter.

Yes, sir, Protective Assistant Albert Young reported that a fire in brush and timber two miles east of Ruch yesterday afternoon was started by a man or men hunting for a bee tree and its honey. And Mr. Young is a woodsman of such extensive experience that he can tell these things.

When a bee hunter doesn't know where the bee tree is, this is how Mr. Young says he works: He lights a pine cone and makes a lot of smoke. The smoke attracts the bees from their honey trees no matter how far away it is. The hunter proceeds in the direction from which the bees came. After a while he lights another cone and again the bees come swarming to the smoke. This process is repeated until, unwittingly, the bees reveal where their honey tree is. Then the hunters show their appreciation of the bees' obliging conduct by robbing them of their honey.

Well, to make a short story a little longer, the bee hunter at some stage of the hunt yesterday dropped a burning cone and failed to put it out. That's what Mr. Young says.

The Star ranger station sent a crew to the fire but it had already been put out by Robert Hughes, Glenn Smith and Mathew Ray, farmers of the neighborhood. The blaze covered one-tenth acre.
