FIVE ERRORS IN INITIAL INNING CAUSE OF DEFEAT

Peccia Hurls Four-Hitter, But Gets No Support—Locals Can't Hit in Clutch.

Salem, Ore., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Corvallis downed Julia Lee Wright of Portland, 4-1, and the Portland Firemen handed Medford a 5-0 beating in the first half of the quarter-finals of the state softball tourney here last night.

Medford made five errors in the first inning as the entire infield juggled the ball around permitting the only five runs the Portland firemen were able to make. Medford tightened up behind their pitcher, Joe Peccia, who wasn't responsible for a single Fireman tally, and kept the smokestackers from even threatening the rest of the game. Medford loaded the bases in the third and ninth, but couldn't punch over a score.

Corvallis and the Firemen will open the semi-final play Friday night, along with the winners of tonight's game between Pendleton and Oregon City and Square Deal of Salem and Bonneville.

SOOSE OUTPOINTS ZALE IN KING'S X MIDDLEWEIGHT GO

Winner Outboxes Champ in Six Heats—Verdict Unanimous in Favor of Soose

By Charles Dunkley
Chicago, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Billy Soose, the shifty and sharp boxing master from Farrell, Pa., has created an unprecedented situation in middleweight history.

This 23-year-old former Penn State college boxer holds the distinction of having conquered both claimants to the title within a month, yet he does not possess the most important thing—the title itself.

Last night on Chicago's west side, Soose surprisingly defeated the deadly punching Tony Zale, the "blonde buster" of Gary, Ind., recognized by the National Boxing association as middleweight champion, in 10 blistering rounds.

Both Overweight
A month ago Soose whipped Ken Overlin, recognized as champion by the states of New York and California. Both bouts were fought over the middleweight limit of 160 pounds, the significant bar which prevented the championship from passing into the eastern youngster's hands. Soose scaled 162 and Zale 161.

The verdict of the two judges and Referee Joe McNamara was unanimously in favor of Soose over the Gary puncher, who had won his last 12 bouts. He jabbed considerable prestige out of Zale's title, obtained when Zale defeated Al Hostak of Seattle, in a 13-round knockout July 19. Last night's verdict met with the howling approval of 7,000 fans.

Zale, a deadly body puncher when in range, started out with the intention of wearing down Soose quickly. For the first two rounds he smashed away with sharp punches to the body. But beginning with the third he found the tall easterner no easy target.

Longer Reach
With better boxing skill and reach in his favor, Soose began popping tantalizing lefts into Zale's face and blocking or moving away from body punches aimed by Zale. He completely outboxed the Gary boy in at least six rounds, although Zale kept charging in to force the fighting. Zale, however, could not match him in boxing skill, and was unable to find the range for enough of his heavy body punches.

McLemore Ferrets Out Five Contenders for Louis Crown

By Henry McLemore
United Press Staff Correspondent
New York, Aug. 22.—(AP)—A recent survey conducted by either the D.A.R. or the right wing of the Metropolitan museum of art, I forget which, revealed that there are but five heavyweights in the United States worthy of a chance at Joe Louis and his title.

Three of them—Bob Pastor, Billy Conn and Lou Nova—you are fairly well acquainted with. Pastor is the fellow who has gone 21 rounds with Louis and still is able to dress himself, drive his own car, and recognize his family. Conn is the fat-tended up collar-ad boy from Pittsburgh who holds the 175-pound championship and whose scheduled fight with Pastor was postponed when 23 raindrops and fewer customers showed up on the day of the bout. Nova, the yogi-man, now is in Reno getting a divorce from the effects of the beating Tony Galento gave him in Philadelphia a year ago. Nova will prove his fitness in a few weeks by fighting one Bilmp Williams, a 273-pound fugitive from London's balloon barrage.

Now the other two heavy-weight candidates unearched by the survey you might not know so much about. The more prominent is Pat Comiskey, an Irish youngster from Paterson, N. J., whose feet don't match but whose fists do. At 20 Comiskey stands well over six feet, weighs upwards of 215, and is more awkward than a collie pup. But there are fistic savants who swear he hits harder than Louis does, and his record of 24 knockouts in 28 fights would indicate that he hits for keeps. He is said to have developed a super left hand in the past year, but as really good left hands are something fighters are born with and do not develop, you can take that with an extra shaking of Morton's.

Heavyweight prospect No. 5 is Charley Ketchuk, a Ruthenian who works out of Endicott, N. Y., an upstate town. He is managed by Jersey Jones, who, for a great deal of the year, is engaged by Mike Jacobs to publicize Joe Louis. But even when Jersey is handling the publicity from a Louis camp, he spends a good half of his time beating the tom-tom for Ketchuk. While this constitutes fifth columning no one seems to mind, chiefly because Louis needs a capable challenger more than he does a build up.

When Ketchuk turned professional a year ago his board of strategy decided to bring him along slowly, to teach him to walk the rocky road of pugilism before asking him to run it. Just a youngster out of high school, where he was such a good football player that he was reported to have received offers of scholarships from Syracuse, Colgate, Georgetown, and southern California, he was fed a steady diet of harmless oats. And oats, not wheats, is the breakfast of champions in the making. In 16 bouts he lost only one decision.

Ketchuk started his second year of busting beaks for money

DUCKS LOSE 12-1 TILT TO PADRES

By the Associated Press
The Los Angeles Angels can't get settled in second place long enough to call it home.

Seattle handed the Seraphs an eviction notice in duplicate last night, winning a Pacific coast league doubleheader 10 to 2 and 6 to 1, for a three-straight series. It happened while Oakland, the old tenants at No. 2, blanked Hollywood 4 to 0 and took up housekeeping where they left off last week, at a discreet distance, 16½ games, behind the Seattle crowd.

The San Diego Padres got a firmer clutch on the shirtillo of the first division by walloping the pitiable Portland Beavers, 12 to 1, for two straight.

At Sacramento the Solons met all kinds of grief in losing to seventh-place San Francisco 5 to 0.

Half the league is idle tonight as clubs climb on the rattlers for the second half of the season's last split series. Friday night will find Los Angeles at

COLLEGES ARE URGED BY AUTHOR TO THROW ALL TEXTBOOKS OUT

Boston.—(AP)—American colleges and universities should abolish textbooks and substitute the study of 100 of the world's greatest books, according to Dr. Mortimer J. Adler, author of "How to Read a Book."

As a model for such a move he suggested St. John's at Annapolis where "all the great teachers are dead. There are very few lectures there. The living teachers lead the discussions on the great thinkers like Homer, Plato, Galen, Hegel, Marx and Freud."

Quebec, founded in 1608, is the only walled city remaining in the North American continent.
