When disorders of kidney functions permit poisonous matter to remain in your blood it may cause you backache, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up 7 or 8 times at night—proof that there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. ## BOY SNATCHER OF PURSES CLOUTED

For the second time in a week a young boy, possibly the culprit involved in the first case, got belted in the face with a woman's purse he unsuccessfully attempted to snatch Friday night.
Mrs. Betty Bourn of 135 Tripp street reported to city police that she was walking south on Tripp street about 9:25 p. m. Friday. A boy she judged to be 12 or 13 years old was stooped over on the sidewalk apparently tying his shoe, and when she reached his side he suddenly straightened up and made a grab for her purse, she told police.
The youth, Mrs. Bourn related, missed the purse, and received a clout across the side of the head with the object of his intent. Whereupon he left the scene in a hurry, empty handed.
Mrs. Bourn described the youngster as being about four feet, 10 inches tall, light haired and wearing a tan checkered shirt and brown trousers.
Monday night, Mrs. Alta Hartley of 810 South Oakdale avenue was accosted near the Christian church by a young boy who tried to grab her purse. She struck him twice with the purse and he scurried away without it.

SOAP BOX RACING CLASSIC MONDAY QUEEN ANNE HILL

Medford's third annual racing classic, the Mail Tribune-Boy Scout midget speeder derby, will be contested on Queen Anne hill at 5:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, and those in charge of the popular event claim this year's derby will be the most successful yet staged.

Ten youngsters, including Donald Smith, winner in 1939, have entered their home-made vehicles thus far, and several last-minute entrants are expected.

The race course, stretching over a quarter of a mile from the starting ramp atop Queen Anne hill to the wire at McAndrews street, is in excellent condition for the speeders. There is plenty of room along the sidewalks for spectators and race officials look for the largest crowd yet to witness these derbies.

Seven boys have definitely entered the class A group, for those 12 to 15 years old, inclusive. They are Don Smith, 14; Bill Sims, 12; Milton Singler, 14; Donald Handley, 12; Richard Harrison, 12; Arlon Skinner, 13 and Norton Smith, 15.

The three competitors in the class B group, nine to 11 years old, inclusive, are: Bill Singler, 11; Billy Ballew, 11, and Bobby Reinhart, 10.

Because the total weight limit for speeder and driver is 250 pounds, many of the pilots have been on strict diets the past few days in order to get within the requirement.

As the defending champion Donald Smith, will be the favorite to finish ahead of the field, although several of the other drivers are expected to give him terrific competition. The speeder Donald drove last year has been rebuilt, and he says it is even faster than before.

The derby will be staged in three classes, A, B and C, the latter to include those cars not qualifying for group A or B. There will be one or two heats in each class, with the fastest speeders in A and B classes meeting in the finals.

Inspection of all vehicles not already having been checked will be held immediately preceding the derby. All cars must be inspected before they can compete.

Judges for the derby will be Mayor Charles C. Furnas, Chief of Police Clatous McCredie and Scout Executive Raymond Wells. M. C. (Doc) Wright will be in charge of the starting line, assisted by City Policeman Ray Sloneker. Clyde Fichtner, city traffic officer, will police the speedway and will be assisted in safety measures by Boy Scouts. Ray Harrison is general chairman of the derby committee.

In addition to the glory and thrills in finishing high in the derby, the youths will receive prizes donated by the following local merchants: Larry Schade, Brophy's, Schoepen flower shop, Buster Brown shoe store, Klockner Printery, Hotel Jackson, Montgomery Ward, Mann's, Medford Cleaners, Snyder's dairy, Brown and White, Newbury's, J. C. Penney, Woolworths, Western Thrift, Utz men's store, Gates and Lydiard, Barneburg and Andrews, Shirley Brothers, Hubbard Brothers, Hansen hardware, Brill Metal Works, Mode-O-Day, Medford Stationery store, Riverside market, Home grocery, City meat market, Reliable grocery, Fluhrer's bakery, Ivy's bungalow

REV. HUTCHINSON MEDFORD GUARDS TO ADDRESS J'VILLE BACK HOME FROM CHURCH CEREMONY ARMY MANEUVERS

Medford's two national guard units returned home yesterday afternoon after three weeks of intensive maneuvers in Washington and immediately there was talk of preparations for leaving again in the near future for at least a year of active duty.
All the Medford men were in excellent condition, said Capt. Carl Y. Tengwald, commanding Company A, 186th infantry, and First Lieut. James W. Grigsby, commanding headquarters detachment, the two local units in the 41st division.
After detaining the men, fully equipped for the field and carrying the latest semi-automatic Garand rifles, marched to the armory where they were dismissed. All the men looked in the best of health and spirits, sun-tanned by their outdoor life, apparently happy to be home again.
A large group of persons welcomed the guardsmen home as the special Southern Pacific train bringing them back to Medford came into the station. The 41st is one of four national guard divisions expected to be called to active duty next month under special defense mobilization legislation. Unofficial word was that the division would be mobilized about September 15 for encampment about September 25.

Features of the anniversary service to be held at the historic Methodist church in Jacksonville September 1 include an address by the Rev. Robert A. Hutchinson, last pastor of the old church, and a group of hymns by members of the last choir.

This will be the third annual ceremony initiated by the Civic and Business Men's club of Jacksonville to keep the memory of the historic church alive. ## REV. HUTCHINSON MEDFORD GUARDS TO ADDRESS J'VILLE BACK HOME FROM CHURCH CEREMONY ARMY MANEUVERS

Medford's two national guard units returned home yesterday afternoon after three weeks of intensive maneuvers in Washington and immediately there was talk of preparations for leaving again in the near future for at least a year of active duty.
All the Medford men were in excellent condition, said Capt. Carl Y. Tengwald, commanding Company A, 186th infantry, and First Lieut. James W. Grigsby, commanding headquarters detachment, the two local units in the 41st division.
After detaining the men, fully equipped for the field and carrying the latest semi-automatic Garand rifles, marched to the armory where they were dismissed. All the men looked in the best of health and spirits, sun-tanned by their outdoor life, apparently happy to be home again.
A large group of persons welcomed the guardsmen home as the special Southern Pacific train bringing them back to Medford came into the station. The 41st is one of four national guard divisions expected to be called to active duty next month under special defense mobilization legislation. Unofficial word was that the division would be mobilized about September 15 for encampment about September 25.

SOAP BOX RACING CLASSIC MONDAY QUEEN ANNE HILL

Medford's third annual racing classic, the Mail Tribune-Boy Scout midget speeder derby, will be contested on Queen Anne hill at 5:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, and those in charge of the popular event claim this year's derby will be the most successful yet staged.

Ten youngsters, including Donald Smith, winner in 1939, have entered their home-made vehicles thus far, and several last-minute entrants are expected.

The race course, stretching over a quarter of a mile from the starting ramp atop Queen Anne hill to the wire at McAndrews street, is in excellent condition for the speeders. There is plenty of room along the sidewalks for spectators and race officials look for the largest crowd yet to witness these derbies.

Seven boys have definitely entered the class A group, for those 12 to 15 years old, inclusive. They are Don Smith, 14; Bill Sims, 12; Milton Singler, 14; Donald Handley, 12; Richard Harrison, 12; Arlon Skinner, 13 and Norton Smith, 15.

The three competitors in the class B group, nine to 11 years old, inclusive, are: Bill Singler, 11; Billy Ballew, 11, and Bobby Reinhart, 10.

Because the total weight limit for speeder and driver is 250 pounds, many of the pilots have been on strict diets the past few days in order to get within the requirement.

As the defending champion Donald Smith, will be the favorite to finish ahead of the field, although several of the other drivers are expected to give him terrific competition. The speeder Donald drove last year has been rebuilt, and he says it is even faster than before.

The derby will be staged in three classes, A, B and C, the latter to include those cars not qualifying for group A or B. There will be one or two heats in each class, with the fastest speeders in A and B classes meeting in the finals.

Inspection of all vehicles not already having been checked will be held immediately preceding the derby. All cars must be inspected before they can compete.
