Northern Film at Rialto

Thrills and suspense are the keynote of the roaring drama of the frozen North in "The Girl from God's Country," which heads the twin bill of action hits opening a three-day run today at the cool Rialto theatre. Chester Morris is starred as a doctor from the States who, because he has false-ly been convicted of a crime he did not commit, escapes into

Henry Fonda Has Frank James Role In New Picture

Those who thrilled to last year's "Jesse James" will find "The Return of Frank James," which opened yesterday at the Craterian theatre, even more colorful and action-packed. Filmed in spectacular Technicolor, the exciting climax to the exploits of the James Brothers is one of the few pictures that can truthfully be called greater than its predecessor. The cast has many of the picture with Henry Fonda shown as Frank, Jesse's grim older brother. Others are Henry Hull, John Carradine, J. Edward Bromberg, Donald Meeker and Gene Tynney, Jackie Cooper, Eddie Collins and George Barbier—quite a cast!

The story of "The Return of Frank James" is the story of Frank's determination to avenge the cowardly murder of his brother, Jesse, shot in the back by the traitorous Ford brothers. Railroad money paid the Fords and political influence freed them after conviction, so Frank realizes the only way he can revenge Jesse is to return to outlawry.

Always maintaining a high pitch of excitement, the picture then follows Frank all over the lawless West, with stirring scenes of robbery, murder, gun-fights, man-hunts, train hold-ups, escape and pursuit. The picture's climax is tense and dramatic—as Frank at long last comes face to face with Bob Ford.

Henry Fonda is, as might be expected, perfect in his role of Frank James. This fine actor has brought many outstanding characterizations to the screen but has never been in better form. Much of the credit for the gripping entertainment the film offers belongs to Fonda, with the other members of the cast deserving of praise also.
