

LEGALITY OF LAW TO CURB PICKETS DUE FOR DECISION

Oregon Supreme Court to Hear Rearguments Sept. 24—On Books Two Years

By Paul W. Harvey, Jr.
Salem, Sept. 13.—(P)—After almost two years have elapsed, the people of Oregon will find out whether their union control law is constitutional.

The state supreme court will hear rearguments September 24 and a decision is expected a month or so later.

There have been many legal delays since a three-judge circuit court in Portland ruled July 8, 1939, that the law is valid. Most of the delay was caused by principals in the suit, who obtained extensions in filing briefs.

Due To Terror Reign
The law, which prohibits picketing or boycotting unless more than half of the employees involved are engaged in a labor dispute involving wages, hours or working conditions, was passed as an initiative in November, 1938, by 197,771 to 148,460. The state had just experienced a reign of labor terrorism in which many labor leaders went to prison.

The AFL, CIO and Railroad Brotherhood contended the law was unconstitutional in that it conflicts with federal labor laws, violates free press and free speech, and violates the rights of workers to conduct unions.

The AFL brought its attorney, Joseph A. Padway of Washington, D. C., to Salem last May 21 to argue its case before the supreme court. Five judges, who sat at that hearing, couldn't agree, so the rehearing before all seven judges was set.

Wait Higher Court
The delay in holding the May hearing was caused largely by pending labor cases in the United States supreme court. Both sides wanted to find out what the highest court thought about picketing.

The United States supreme court ruled that the picketing laws of California and Alabama were unconstitutional. Labor unions then contended that the Oregon law was similar to those of California and Alabama, and hence should be thrown out. The state, however, denied there was any similarity.

LIONS CLUB HEARS LEGION POST CHIEF
A talk on the advantages accruing to young men who enlist in the national guard now was given Tuesday night at the regular weekly dinner meeting of the Lions club in the Hotel Medford by Lloyd Williamson, commander of Medford post, American legion, and a member of Medford's national defense committee.

Kenneth Wells, club member, showed motion pictures of the 1937 Boy Scout jamboree in Holland.

Guests, besides Mr. Williamson, were Ted Beem, Joe Runtz, Harry Thurman and Kenneth Gill of Portland.

CHARWOMAN WANTED AT LOCAL POSTOFFICE
The U. S. civil service commission today announced an open competitive examination for the position of charwoman at the Medford postoffice.

Duties of the position are those of sweeping, dusting, cleaning, etc. The pay is 50c an hour for each hour of actual service. A vacancy at the postoffice exists because of the resignation of Mrs. Jewel E. Hurst.

Full information regarding the examination may be obtained at the postoffice from Stanley G. Sherwood, acting secretary of the local board of civil service examiners.

Ex-Mayors Active.
Toledo, O.—(U.P.)—Toledo has four mayors—past and present—in public life. Roy C. Start is the present mayor. Former mayors including: Addison Q. Thacher, a member of the city council; Frederick Mery, secretary of the civil service commission, and Selon T. Klotz, now a civil service title examiner.

SCHOOL STUDIES TO CONTINUE FOR NATIONAL GUARD

High School Students Will Be Able to Keep up Work; Principals to Cooperate

Salem, Sept. 13.—(Sp.)—High school students who are enlisted in the 41st division are to continue their school studies while in service, Major-General George A. White, 41st division commander, announced Wednesday, following a conference with Rex Putnam, state superintendent of public instruction.

A system of correspondence schools, proposed by Putnam, was agreed upon, White said. Under this plan, Putnam will ask superintendents of all high schools in Oregon to prepare lessons for individual students. These lessons will then be sent to the division training camp at Fort Lewis. At that place, they will be received by regimental educational teams, detailed by General White for supervision of high school instruction.

High Schools to Grade
Those working at the Camp Murray end of the program will include regimental chaplains and officers having past experience as high school instructors. Lessons prepared by students will be returned by military officers to the high school for grading. Putnam indicated that a system of credits could be worked out whereby high school students would be able to keep up with their school work.

Under the plan of co-operation worked out Wednesday, Putnam will enlist all high school principals in the plan and General White will organize the instruction schools at the division camp.

2000 Students Listed
Educational authorities in Washington, Montana, Idaho and Wyoming were asked by General White to co-operate in the Putnam plan of correspondence schools.

While no detailed figures were available, it was estimated that there are at least 2000 high school students in the entire division, whose total strength is 13,000 officers and men.

MURDER CHARGE LOCATES BROTHER MISSING 30 YEARS

'Hen House' Slayer is Visited By Brother—Was Good Boy on Kansas Farm

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 13.—(P)—Two brothers who had been separated for more than 30 years met again today when Alfred Anderson of Okanogan came to the Spokane county jail to visit John Bruce Anderson, held on a first degree murder charge for the "hen house" slaying of a neighbor last July. Alfred was the first visitor that J. B. Anderson had had since he was brought to the Spokane jail from Yakima early last month and Sheriff Ralph Buckley announced he had signed a confession of the slaying of David Johnson, Marshall farmer, when Johnson caught him robbing a hen house.

Was Good Boy
After the visit, Alfred, a fruit farmer in the north central Washington district, said he had not seen his brother since they had left their parents' farm "in Kansas," more than 30 years ago.

He had no idea his brother was even in this part of the country until he read that a man by the same name was charged with murder here, he said. "I don't understand it," he added. "He was a good fellow when we were going to Sunday school together back on the
