Wallace Beery In 'Wyoming' Scoring Hit At Craterian

Wallace Beery swashbuckles through battles, raids and thrills, and turns comedian in his funniest romance since "Min and Bill" in "Wyoming," his latest outdoors adventure drama, now showing at the Craterian theater. Like its predecessor, "Bad Man of Brimstone," it is laid amid gorgeous scenery, having been filmed in the awe-inspiring region about Jackson Hole, Wyoming.

He plays Reb Harkness, former desperado who, to protect a young girl and small child, becomes a champion of law and order in a primitive wilderness, breaking up a gang of desperados, aiding General Custer, fighting Indians. He plays comical court to Marjorie Main, as the "lady blacksmith" of the town and engages in other comedy with Leo Carrillo. Some of the finest scenes are between Beery and little Bobs Watson, who enacts the orphan Beery protects. Ann Rutherford has the young romance angle of the story with Lee Bowman, who plays Custer's young lieutenant. Paul Kelly enacts Custer, made up to duplicate this historic figure.
