Billy Hulén Says:

Brooks and Yanks May Play Series For N. Y. Title

Lil' ole New York won't see any world's series baseball this year, unless a miracle happens and the Yanks bust through in a last-second operation, but a "serious" just about as interesting is being eyed by Ed Barrow, big shot of the Bronx Bombers . . . the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National loop, currently in second hole in that circuit, have challenged the Yankees to a set of tilts for the metropolitan championship, and an answer to the proposition is expected shortly . . . Bill Terry of the Giants is probably gnashing his teeth at the thought of the Yanks and Dodgers contesting for the New York title . . .

Baseball is definitely buttoned up hereabouts until next spring . . . directors of the Medford athletic association voted to call it quits for the season, turning thumbs down on that proposed game with a team composed of Pacific Coast league players . . . it was felt an early fall was in the offing, making the weather too unpredictable for baseball . . . besides, the Coast leaguers wanted a $100 guarantee to play a night tiff here, which wouldn't have been had earlier in the year but which looked like too much of a gamble right now . . .

Medford high school won't issue football programs for home games this season, so clients will have to keep an extra ear glued to the public address system . . . Lou Nova will head east soon to meet either Billy Conn, who will probably thump him good, or the winner of the Max Baer-Pat Comiskey affair . . . Dick Chapman, the national amateur golf champ, is being sued by his wife for a divorce and 50 grand per year alimony . . .

I. Pickem has been scooped . . . the pigskin prognosticator won't start his annual series of peerless picks until Oct. 4, and right out of a clear sky what should turn up yesterday but that other yearly headache, the yellow sheet . . . with a two-weeks' head start on Mr. Pickem, the yellow paper lists, among others, these games for September 21: Boston college spots Centre 27 tallies, L. S. U. gives Louisiana Tech 28, V. M. I. spots Roanoke 28, Clemson gives Presbyterian 15, Kentucky spots Baldwin-Wallace 26, Gonzaga spots College of Idaho 34, Mississippi U. presents Union with 40 and North Carolina university awards good old Appalachian a mere 46 markers . . .

Eddie Bristol reports plenty of smart money is on Indians to win the Big Ten crown . . . Pickem's dark-horse for the coast gonfalon is U. C. L. A., and if Jackie Robinson ever gets past the line the Bruins are in . . . Don Moyer, a regular end on last year's Black Tornado eleven, has been elected co-captain of the Grants Pass Cavemen, along with fullback Bill Davis . . .

Paul Christman, Missouri's passing flash who is starting his eighth season of football, has never appeared in a game in which he didn't call the plays . . . Linn Mills, coach of Roosevelt grade school's grid team, is not so optimistic this year but still confident his outfit will win a few ball games . . . Central Point is the only class B high school in Jackson county playing eleven-man football this season . . . the rest of the schools are going in for the six-man game . . .

PHELAN SEEKING BLOCKING BACKS

Seattle, Sept. 19.—(P)—The University of Washington coaching staff would sell a half share of its Rose Bowl prospects today for a couple of first-class block-throwing right halfbacks. Dean McAdams is the regular. Although the Idaho lad is a spectacular triple threat star, all Coach Jimmy Phelan and company are asking of his relief men is top-notch blocking ability. Chuck Pemanek, a sophomore, and Maurice Stacy and Lloyd Phelps members of last year's squad, are the best prospects to date, but none of them have displayed quite the knack Phelan is seeking.

Rain Improves Conditions for Opening of Deer Season

SUNRISE FRIDAY MARKS START OF 36-DAY SEASON

Bucks Plentiful in Hills, Is Report — Blacktail Bag Limit Is Cut to One

Oregon's 1940 deer-hunting season opens at the crack of dawn Friday and will continue through October 25, and because of the rains of the past few days local nimrods are expecting one of the most successful inaugurations in years and years.

"Perfect" was the word state police used in describing conditions for stalking the elusive buck in the hills and dales, with the recent wet weather insuring sportsmen a big "break" as they hike out in search of fresh venison.

Already, according to local hunting headquarters, hundreds of persons are camped near the choice hunting grounds in Klamath county, where they hope to bag big mule deer. The general exodus from Medford, for those in search of Columbian blacktail in this vicinity, will start later today and early tomorrow morning.

Reports indicate that there are an unusually large number of deer in the mountains around Medford, perhaps more than in any recent year. The Butte Falls, Applegate and Evans Creek districts are said to be plentiful with blacktail, and reports from the coastal region are to the effect that more deer than ever before are awaiting the hunter's bullet.

Action Legal
The bag limit this year, on both the eastern Oregon mule deer and the Columbian blacktail, is one buck. Hunters formerly were allowed two blacktail bucks, but the state game commission curtailed the limit. Legality of the hotly-contested action in cutting the blacktail limit was upheld by the attorney general, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

The game commission declined to authorize another open season on antlerless deer or does, either in Grant, Klamath and Lake counties, but most of the reserves have been thrown open to hunting. These include Canyon Creek, Mule Deer, Myrtle Creek, Mount Emily, Ochoco, Steen's Mountain and Warner (outside of limits of federal reserve) reserves. Canyon Creek will be reserved for bow and arrow hunters for the first two weeks of the hunting season.

General resident hunting licenses are $3 and non-resident hunting licenses are $15.

74 EMBRYO LAWYERS TAKE OATH TOMORROW

Salem, Sept. 19.—(P)—The 74 law students who passed their bar examinations last summer will be sworn in as attorneys tomorrow by the state supreme court.

Tulelake Veteran Dies

Klamath Falls, Sept. 19.—(P)—Sever O. Viken, 59, among the first of the war veterans who obtained homesteads in the Tulelake region in 1922, died Wednesday. He was injured when a team of horses ran away.

PADRES BLANKED BY LOS ANGELES; CHAMPS TIP OAKS

San Francisco, Sept. 19.—(P)—Southpaw Ray Prim's shutout pitching left Los Angeles one game up on San Diego today in the Pacific Coast baseball league Shaughnessy playoffs, as Seattle and Oakland, tied at one game apiece, headed for Seattle to resume their series tomorrow night.

In blanking the Padres 9-0 last night, Prim not only twirled airtight ball but also singled in the first run of the game with two out in the seventh, touching off a wild scoring spree that saw five Angel runs cross the plate in the seventh and four more in the eighth.

The Angels and Padres meet at Los Angeles again tonight, then switch to San Diego to finish the four-out-of-seven game series for the right to meet the winner of the Seattle-Oakland series in the playoff finals for $5,000 first prize and the president's trophy.

At Oakland last night, the champion Seattle Rainiers tied up their affair with Oakland by scoring a 2 to 1 win in a tight battle in which Seattle pushed over the winning run in the sixth on a perfect squeeze play.

With the game tied up at one-all, George Archie tripled to center and slid home, safe by bare inches, when Dick Gyselman planked down a neat bunt in front of home plate. Oakland won by the same score Tuesday night.

The scores:
Seattle R. H. E.
 2 8 0
Oakland 1 4 0
Turpin and Campbell; Buxton and W. Raimondi.

San Diego R. H. E.
 0 5 2
Los Angeles 9 13 1
Newsome, Craghead and Salkeid; Prim and Holm.

JAY GRAYBEAL TO HUNT BUCK, NOT TOUCHDOWN

Pendleton, Sept. 19.—(P)—Jackrabbit Jay Graybeal, who made a specialty of bagging touchdown passes for the University of Oregon, is out to bag himself a buck this year.

The ex-Webfoot halfback, who is still eligible for competition in other sports, will return to the university after a spell of deer-stalking in the Blue mountains. He plans to offer his services to Freshman Coach John Warren.

TWO DUCK BACKS GET MINOR HURTS

Eugene, Sept. 19.—(P)—Slight injuries suffered by Webfoots in blustering scrimmages this week, including knee and ankle injuries to Fullback Marsh Stenstrom and Halfback Buck Berry, has caused Coach Tex Oliver to call a halt to hand-to-hand skirmishes in the University of Oregon football camp. The troublesome fullback situation took a brighter turn yesterday with the arrival of Dick Dunlap, 200-pound fullback transfer from Melo Junior college.

Corvallis, Sept. 19.—(P)—Faces were long on the Oregon State college campus today as Football Coach Lon Stiner tried to figure out how to down Idaho and U.S.C. without Leonard Younce.

The brilliant running guard suffered a serious shoulder sprain in yesterday's scrimmage. Dr. Waldo Ball, team physician, said he would be on the sidelines against Idaho September 28, and possibly against the Trojans a week later.

Beaver backs have been flipping a lot of passes, indicating the team may take to the air more often than last year when the Orangemen made a habit of grabbing early leads and sticking to the ground. Bob Olson and Bob Dethman, left halfbacks, have been most effective.

Vice-Admiral Dies.
London, Sept. 19.—(P)—Death of Vice-Admiral Basil George Washington while in active service at sea was announced today. He retired in 1931 after 28 years in the royal navy, but returned to active duty this year.

TORNADO TO END DRILLS FOR WEED GAME FRIDAY EVE

Bad weather sent Medford high's Black Tornado gridders into the gymnasium for their daily drill yesterday afternoon, and Coach Bill Bowerman said that another light workout today would wind up practice sessions for the season's opening game here tomorrow night against the Weed, (Cal.) high school Cougars.

The forward wall which will open the clash will be composed of six lettermen and one player with no previous interscholastic experience—Louie Bair, a senior right end. Teaming with Bair will be Bob Leonard, Bill Wall and Jimmy Glenn will start at the tackles, Claud Jones and Jack Florey at the guards, and Jim Wallis at center. Thursday.
