THERE IS A TIDE in the affairs of men—why, Mr. Shakespeare, fancy meeting you here—which should be taken while there's a chance. For example, those Westerners who don't live in Portland but always intended to see Portland's Rose Festival should see it this year.

Next year, or the next, is not far away in time—but it may be a lifetime away in affairs. And the Rose Festival should be seen at least once in a lifetime—in fact the more times seen, the better the lifetime.

Ordinarily Standard would dwell upon the remarkable beauty of this gay civic enterprise, upon the years Portland people have spent in bringing it to perfection, upon its eye-appeal and happy carnival mood. Instead, let us consider it an American opportunity.

Where else may a people turn their faces to pure beauty? Where may they similarly let a shower of beauty wash and launder the spirit? Yes, for Americans, all it takes is the doing. The dates are June 11-14, inclusive. And this is the year... to enjoy a long-promised pleasure... to absorb a floral concert a whole city unites to compose... to know the thrill of a symphony in flowers.
