Waterfront Fire Threatens Jersey Railway Terminal

This is an aerial view of a fire which swept through an eight-story grain elevator Saturday night and caused considerable damage to other plants and the Erie Railway terminal on the Hudson river waterfront in Jersey City, N. J. All Jersey City fire apparatus, and five coast guard tugs fought the blaze which caused damage estimated to exceed $3,500,000. (As associated Press photo by air mail to Mail Tribune).

Washington, June 2.—Thus far, the president has taken only one concrete step to implement the policy laid down in his message to the nation. He has reinforced and extended the Atlantic patrol. How much does the step mean? The answer must necessarily be tentative, for the subject is hedged about with the prohibitions of official secrecy. Yet there are a few facts on which to form a judgment.
 First, the Atlantic patrol is itself only an extension of the old so-called neutrality patrol, ordered by the president in the first days of the war. The ostensible purpose of the old neutrality patrol was to prevent belligerent vessels from operating off the shores of the Americas. It contained the complete germ of the Atlantic patrol, however. If the patrolling ships and planes sighted German craft, they announced the fact to Washington in an intentionally simple code, which it was not difficult for the British navy to break.
 Second, the neutrality patrol was transformed into the Atlantic patrol sometime ago, when the Atlantic fleet was ordered to extend its surveillance to 30 degrees West or to a line about half way across the ocean, running down between Iceland and Greenland. The order was given at a moment when conveying as far as Greenland was being so seriously considered that political preparations for it had actually been made. At the last minute, probably because of fear of public opinion, the president substituted the half-measure. And although Winston Churchill told the British people it meant much, the half-measure was pretty ineffective. The area under patrol was

No Sabotage Seen in Costly Conflagration on Waterfront

Jersey City, N. J., June 2.—(AP)—Blackened rubble and heat-twisted steelwork held the secret today of the cause of a 24-hour fire that ravaged eight blocks along the Jersey City waterfront, but the police, coast guard and federal bureau of investigation expressed belief that it definitely was not sabotage.
 Fire Chief Frank Ertie, who estimated the damage at $25,000,000 told newsmen to "put any sabotage ideas out of your mind," adding that the fire could have started from a carelessly-tossed cigarette.
 J. Edgar Hoover, FBI chief, who also discounted the sabotage possibility, said in Omaha, Neb., that there were no national defense materials destroyed.
 The fire broke out Saturday afternoon in a stock yard and was not extinguished until after the flames had mushroomed spectacularly through the waterfront area between Sixth street and Pavonia avenue.

NO ISLANDS SAFE BOASTS GOERING

Berlin, June 2.—(AP)—Reichsmarshal Herman Wilhelm Goering declared tonight that Nazi paratroopers and air-borne troops who occupied Crete had "proved before the whole world the words of the Fuehrer: That there are no unconquerable islands."
 In an order of the day, the air chiefain virtually stamped out the ground for their future actions.
 "This could mean an attempt to invade England but Cyprus is another potential island objective of the Luftwaffe."
 Goering called the conquest of Crete "an unprecedented achievement" marked by "superhuman accomplishments" by the parachute fighters.
 "The paratroopers," he said, "were inspired by a tremendous offensive spirit and were entirely on their own resources and defeated the enemy in heroic and embittered fighting."

JAIL VISITOR IS FORCED TO STAY

It was an intended goodwill visit that Willis Turpin, 45, made at the city jail Saturday, but it turned out to be not so good for him.
 Turpin, Medford man, took some tobacco to the bastille for his friend, R. W. (Goldie) Walker, who had just been given five days for being drunk.
 City police took a couple of quick looks at Turpin and he suddenly found himself inside looking out. He appeared in city court this morning and was sentenced to five days. The charge? Drunkenness.

Cotton Grows in Oakridge Garden

Oakridge, June 2.—(AP)—Think nothing of it if you hear the catchy strains of "Dixie" in these parts—Mrs. John Archer is growing cotton in her garden.

ADDITIONAL HIGHWAY FUNDS RECOMMENDED FOR DEFENSE EFFORT

Washington, June 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt recommended to congress today additional appropriations of $125,000,000 for special defense highway construction.
 In a message to congress, the president proposed that $100,000,000 be authorized specifically for assisting in the development of access roads and $25,000,000 to strengthen bridges and widen services in key roads.
 The message said that the federal works administrator soon would submit a draft of a bill authorizing the appropriations "and it is hoped that this matter may have early consideration."
 The president's recommendations were based upon a survey by the federal works administrator of highway facilities from the viewpoint of national defense.
 "This survey related particularly to the adequacy of ingress to and egress from urban centers, the servicing of existing and proposed army, navy and air bases and the possible necessity for the strengthening of bridges and the widening of roads in strategic areas."

Bellingham, Wash., June 2.—(AP)—Berton Leander Gossett, Ferndale rancher, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault in the second degree in connection with the death of his estranged wife, Nora E. Gossett today in superior court. He was sentenced to serve not less than 10 years nor more than 24 years in the state penitentiary by Judge Hobart Dawson.
 Gossett left the court room whistling a tune after he had admitted smothering his wife to death with his hands and casting her body into a water well.

DICTATORS REACH FULL AGREEMENT AT BRENNER PASS

How to Capitalize on Mediterranean Control Believed Among Conference Topics
 By the Associated Press
 German motorized infantry troops were reported today to have landed at the port of Latakia, Syria, and the British announced the removal of British women and children from the island of Cyprus, off the coast of Syria, in anticipation of a quick axis assault there following the conquest of Crete.
 A British crown colony since 1914, Cyprus is the third largest island in the Mediterranean after Sicily and Sardinia.
 Dispatches from Ankara, Turkey, said, the German troops landed on the Syrian coast May 29, arriving by freighters.
 By the Associated Press
 Adolf Hitler and Premier Mussolini reached a new "complete agreement" on the course of the war today in another meeting at Brenner pass, scene of so many fateful decisions in the 21-month-old European war.
 At the same time the British acknowledged that the Mediterranean had become virtually an "axis sea."
 This situation and how to capitalize on it undoubtedly figured in the Hitler-Mussolini talks.
 In this respect, the presence at the five-hour conversation of General Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the Nazi command, and General Ugo Cavallero, Italian chief of the general staff, was significant.
British Link Lost
 Qualified informants in London said the past week's developments—notably the fall of Crete and the alignment of France with the axis—had practically eliminated the Mediterranean as a link between Britain and the Middle East.
 Even fast warships, it was said, were likely to find transit of the 1,900-mile sea a feat of extreme peril, with two dangerous bottlenecks in the middle.
 Surface vessels in the two danger zones—the 200-mile stretch between Nazi-occupied Crete and axis-held Libya, and the 100-mile gap between Sicily and French-ruled Tunisia—were described as vulnerable to attacks from axis bombers.
 Thus, the inland waterway once fondly termed "mare nostrum—our sea" by the Italians, now is shared with the Germans instead of the British.
Talks Mark Phases
 Each meeting of Hitler and Mussolini has signalled the beginning or end of a major phase in the conflict.
 The axis leaders' last conference, January 20, preceded the Nazi assault on Yugoslavia and Greece.
 While a Berlin announcement merely said broadly that Hitler and Mussolini conferred "about the political situation," speculation arose that they may have discussed:
 1. A possible ultimatum to Turkey, demanding passage of axis troops into the Middle East.
 2. A "final" peace offer to Britain, now that Crete has fallen.
 3. Plans for a full-scale axis drive into Egypt to seize the Suez canal.
 Other developments in the international picture, pacing the swift-breaking events, including a smashing overnight assault by Nazi bombers on the big English industrial city of Manchester, and reported proclamation of a state of siege in eastern Syria, French-ruled, next door to British-controlled Iraq.
 Germany's Luftwaffe, knock-out victor in the 12-day battle of Crete, turned its fury anew on the last British and Greek survivors attempting to escape to North Africa in tiny fishing boats.

SABOTAGE HINTED IN CRASH OF NEW 25-TON BOMBER

Four Fliers Believed Dead in San Diego Plunge of Giant $250,000 Machine
 San Diego, Calif., June 2.—(AP)—Four fliers apparently perished today in the crash of a British Liberator bomber into San Diego bay which a Consolidated Aircraft spokesman said had "evidences of sabotage."
 The spokesman said the $250,000, 25-ton land bomber had been "thoroughly tested, and things like that just don't happen."
 Believed dead were:
 William Wheatley, 39, Chester, N. Y., chief test pilot for the company.
 Allen T. Austin, 28, Kansas City, Mo., assistant test pilot.
 Bruce K. Craig, 27, Chicago, engineer.
 William H. Rieser, 23, Cambridge, Mass.
 Lewis M. McCannon, 25, Woodstock, Ill., chief mechanic, was seriously injured.
 The bodies of Wheatley, Craig and Austin had not been recovered from the shattered bomber.
 Witnesses said the huge plane left the airport on what appeared a normal takeoff, but that the bomber pulled up steep into a vertical climb instead of leveling off. At about 500 feet the plane apparently was in a stall. The bomber then fell off to the left, and nosed down and the pilot, using the throttle appeared to have recovered. This difficulty was experienced over the airport, but by the time the pilot apparently had regained control of the craft it was flying over the water at an altitude of only 50 feet. A few seconds later from an altitude of about 100 feet, the bomber again fell off to the left and the wing struck the water.
 The impact with the water shattered the bomber, witnesses said, and it sank. Navy and small fishing vessels went to the rescue.
 A company official said controls on the bomber "just don't jam."
 Rieser was dead when taken from the plane. McCannon, apparently seriously injured, was rushed to the naval air station on North Island.
 The bomber was completing tests and, the company said, about ready for a flight to England.

War Bulletins

Cairo, Egypt, June 2.—(AP)—The Greek government-in-exile resigned today and the resignations were accepted by King George II. The king was reported convinced it was now desirable to reduce membership of the government. Emanuel Tsouderous remains as premier, with the additional portfolios of foreign affairs and finance.
 New York, June 2.—(AP)—British imperial troops withdrawn from Crete lost all their war material, the German radio declared today.
 London, June 2.—(AP)—A Berlin radio broadcast heard here said today that the exiled grand mufti of Jerusalem, who attempted to fan a Moslem uprising against Britain during the struggle with Iraq, had arrived at Mosul to reorganize Iraq resistance to the British.

ROOSEVELT GIVEN POWER TO IMPOSE WIDE PRIORITIES

Hyde Park, N. Y., June 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt obtained today power to speed the production of arms for Great Britain and the United States by imposing on American industry mandatory priorities of wartime scope.
 Mr. Roosevelt has signed a bill, the temporary White House announced, under which mandatory priorities may be assigned to an order or contract of any foreign government brought within the terms of the lease-lend act, and in some cases, to orders of any government department or of private industry.
 Heretofore, only contracts placed by the army and navy could be given mandatory priorities by the office of production management—the agency to which Mr. Roosevelt has delegated his authority over priorities.
 Again to bolster the armament program, the chief executive has signed a bill to keep iron ore feeding into steel plants. It would permit Canadian vessels to carry ore between American ports on the Great Lakes during the 1941 transportation season.
 The bill suspends for a year a law reserving coastwise trade to American ships. There are not enough American bottoms to carry all the ore to meet demands surpassing all previous records.

SABOTAGE DENIED IN BOEING BLAZE

Vancouver, B. C., June 2.—(CP)—Stanley Burke, president of the Boeing Aircraft Company here, said today that "up to 11 a. m. this morning investigation into the Sunday fire at the Boeing aircraft plant at Sea Island had not adduced the slightest evidence that pointed to sabotage."
 The company's administration building was destroyed yesterday by a fire which caused damage estimated at $75,000 and for a time threatened the adjacent $1,500,000 plane factory, only just completed.

ARMY POST TALK GIVES CENTRAL PT. BOOM IN REALTY

Central Point Recorder Tex Says City-Owned Lots Wanted; Speculators Not Welcome
 Central Point, June 2.—(SpI)—Something of a boom in real estate is being experienced here.
 By June 22, when the city council will meet to consider again the prices established on May 22, City Recorder Guy Tex expects practically all remaining available city lots to be sold. The city now owns 103 lots as compared with 267 about four years ago when prices were reduced in a move to get the property back on the tax rolls, Mr. Tex said.
 Mr. Tex stated he expected the city to retain about 40 of the lots itself for any future need.
 Prospects of establishing an army cantonment in the Antelope or Beagle areas have sharply accelerated the sale of both city and privately-owned real estate here, Mr. Tex said, though he emphasized that even without expectation of the camp Central Point has been steadily growing. Of all the cities in Jackson county, Central Point had the largest percentage gain in population between the 1930 and 1940 federal census enumerations, he stated. The population now is about 1,000, he related, adding that he believes Central Point will become the suburb of Medford.
 Speculators Unwanted
 There is no doubt, however, that prospects of an army camp have created a mild boom, the city recorder said.
 "We are making every possible effort not to sell to speculators," he stated. "We are trying to sell only to those who want to erect homes or business buildings for themselves." To illustrate his point, Mr. Tex said that he was asked by one man if the city would be interested in selling all its lots (there were then 112) for $5,000 and the inquirer was told the city would not.
 Several Medford business men have bought private property on Pine street, the main business street, Central Point business men have bought additional property to protect their interests, renters have purchased homes or acquired land to build homes and property owners and former residents who now reside elsewhere have written to Mr. Tex regarding acquisition of land. Letters asking Mr. Tex to pick out lots for them have been received from former residents now in Arizona, California and Nevada, he said. Prices of
