CONFUSION REIGNS AS WASHINGTON'S GROWTH SPURTS

National Capital, Suburbs Crowded With People On Various Defense Missions

By Jack Stinnett
Washington — Visitors to Washington under unlimited emergency almost invariably mutter "All is confusion."

I have written about the growth of the capital city under national defense before, but it is a continuing story becoming more amazing each day and month.

It is something Washingtonians eat and sleep. It is more general topic of conversation than the war or weather. And it is not surprising that this is true or that the casual visitor thinks this a city of utter confusion.

Population Gains

Since the census was taken last year, it is estimated that Washington has increased its population 10 per cent or almost 70,000 persons. This does not take into consideration the thousands who have settled in the suburban towns in Maryland and Virginia—Alexandria, Arlington, Chevy Chase, Bethesda, Silver Spring and others. It doesn't take into consideration the thousands of new visitors—persons who have discovered a new interest in government and want to see how the whole shebang works; relatives and friends of the numberless new defense workers; business men here to confer on defense contracts; soldiers and sailors from nearby stations.

Rooms Hard to Find

What any visitor is likely to discover first is that even if it is an off-week, he may have trouble getting accommodations at any of the city's 28 first-class hotels unless he has made reservations a week or more in advance. If he is out from 7:30 to 9:30 in the morning or 3:30 to 6 in the afternoon, he'll buck the push of federal worker traffic that reaches its peak in those hours (staggered hours seem only to have spread congestion over longer periods).

At times when he is likely to be in the mood for eating or drinking, he'll find the restaurants and bars filled to capacity—and probably lines of waiting customers in the former.

If he wants a taxi, he'll find there are periods of the day and night or anytime during a storm when it is practically impossible to get one. A taxi company official tells me that a year ago there were 5,000 cabs on the streets of Washington, but now there are only 3,700. Drivers, working on the zone-rate basis (as all Washington cabs do) find the traffic slows them down so they can not make what they feel they should.

If a visitor wants to go shopping, all he can do is join the mass movement of humanity on F street from Seventh to Fourteenth and pray that it will slow up enough to let him work his way in when he comes to his store. The other half of this problem is trying to find a clerk.

SHERIFF'S POSSE RIDES TO SUPPER IN PRESCOTT PARK

Sizzling beefsteaks greeted members of the Sheriff's Mounted Posse and the Sheriff's Ladies' Mounted Troop yesterday evening atop Roxy Ann at Prescott park after a horseback ride from the fairground stables.

About 40 participated in the ride leaving the stables shortly after 6 p. m. Several cars of members joined the group at the park to take part in the feed, swelling the attendance to 60. En route to Roxy Ann, Captain S. M. Tuttle, drill master for the posse, directed both groups in practice drills.

During the evening the posse and ladies' troop presented Captain Tuttle with a hand-tooled leather belt and holster in appreciation of his time and efforts in drilling the groups.

Discussion was held on attending the Pacific Coast International Law Enforcement officers' convention which is scheduled in Portland during July. Representatives will be in attendance from Mexico, Canada and United States. New members of the posse were introduced.

In charge of arrangements for the beefsteak feed were Bernie Thumler, William Grenbemer, Chet Leonard, Dr. Walt Hoppe, George Fields, Carl Bismark and Sheriff Syd L. Brown, ex officio member.

Applegate Birds Use Scarecrow As Building Site

Big Applegate, June 12.—(Spl.)—Yes, a scarecrow is fine to protect the raspberry patch. The birds are so busy building a nest in the scarecrow's shirt that they haven't eaten a berry.

All of which is the story that happened at the W. B. Harlow ranch here. A round pole at the corner of the shirt pocket looked so inviting that a shining blue swallow moved in and soon will be counting her offspring.

All contestants must register with Ray Clark in the sporting goods department of Wards store. Award of prizes will take place in the city park immediately after the parade is ended. The parade will form at the city park at 9:30 a. m. Saturday and will be headed by the Medford senior girls' drum corps.

PLAN RECREATION FOR CHILDREN IN SUMMER MONTHS

(Contributed)

A group of Medford women met at the home of Mrs. Herbert Sims on Ross Court Tuesday to formulate plans for a city-wide recreational program for the children of Medford during the summer months.

This project has long been a recognized needed factor and is now successfully carried out in other Oregon cities annually.

The city council of the P.T.A. in cooperation with the N.Y.A. and other organizations of the city, is working on a plan to bring supervised recreation such as tennis, bicycling, skating, reading and playground amusement under supervision of volunteer parents and interested members of service organizations. As the population of Medford increases a program of this kind will become more necessary.

Ladies who met with Mrs. Sims to begin preliminary work were Mrs. H. O. Colburn, Mrs. Jack Long, Mrs. John Larwood, Mrs. Floyd Lawson, Mrs. Roland Jones and Mrs. R. W. Childreth.

UNPAVED STREETS TO GET OIL COAT

Annual oiling of unpaved streets and roads in Medford and the county will start next week, and city residents desiring to have dirt streets in front of their homes oiled are asked to leave their deposits at the city superintendent's office in city hall.

The charge for this work, which is done by county crews, is five cents a foot for a strip of street 16 feet wide. Home owners living on opposite sides of the street from each other usually share the cost of the oiling.

BEAUTICIAN LEAPS FROM HIGH BRIDGE

Spokane, Wash., June 12.—(AP)—Leaving a note scrawled with lipstick on a letter from her husband, Mrs. Gladys Prentice leaped to her death last night from the 130-foot high Monroe street bridge which spans the Spokane river in mid-city.

She came here only a few days ago from Colton, Calif., where she had been a beauty operator.

The coroner quoted the note as saying: "I'm diving from the Monroe street bridge." It was written across a letter from Del Prentice of Onalaska, Wash., who expressed a wish "we can

GIVE LIVER BILE FLOW A BOOST—

Do This Every Morning for 30 Days

Normally the liver should discharge about a quart of digestion-aiding bile juices a day. If it doesn't—a scanty flow—a slowing up may mean Sick Headaches, so-called Biliousness, Poor Digestion, with that half-sick, tired, ill-gone feeling and most probably Constipation.

There's no need to take Calomel or other risky drugs. Just take a little daily dose of that world-famous Kruschen Salts—half a level teaspoonful in a glass of hot or cold water about half an hour before breakfast. This rouses the flow of bile with its gentle bowel action. Try it for 30 days and you too may shake off that "run-down" feeling and get a real "lift." But don't start unless you are willing to keep it up for 30 days. If then you do not feel 100% better get your money back. Western Thrift Store.
