"The Roundup" on Rialto Bill

The thundering thrills of the early west are brought to the screen in "The Roundup", coming to the Rialto theatre for tomorrow and Saturday, with Preston Foster, Patricia Morison, Richard Dix and Jack Benny's Don Wilson in the principal roles.

Indian uprisings, bandit gun-runners, steers, horses, western music and breath-taking views of the high Sierras, are a colorful part of the picture which has Betty Brewer, Ruth Donnelly, Jerome Cowan, Douglas Dumbrille and the King's Men in featured roles.

"The Great Swindle" starring Jack Holt, will be the companion feature.

Brilliant Coloring In Craterian Film on Current Program

Brilliantly conceived, masterfully executed and beautifully paced, "Blood and Sand" opened yesterday at the Craterian theatre to a packed house.

Starring Tyrone Power, the film is easily the finest technical production that has ever been shown on the screen. The color camera was used, in a manner of speaking, not just to photograph but to "paint" the scenes with the result an impressive screen achievement combining action and art.

With Linda Darnell and Rita Hayworth in the two leading feminine roles, "Blood and Sand" depicts the story of a matador who is torn between love of his beautiful wife and the allure of a fiery temptress. The contrast between the devotion and fidelity of the wife and the callous fickleness of the siren forms a drama in the matador's life which makes it one of the most moving films of the year.

The bull ring sequences, stunningly staged and photographed, which approximate in potency a first hand witnessing of the spectacle, are among the most thrilling scenes ever filmed. It is here, especially, that technicolor has been used in its full power—lending to the scenes all the direct, heart-stopping action and panoramic beauty of the vast amphitheatre.

Nazimova, Anthony Quinn, J. Carrol Naish, John Carradine and Lynn Bari are among those featured.
