WILLIAMSON ENLISTS LEGION IN CAMPAIGN TO BAR FOREST FIRES

Lloyd A. Williamson, forest marshal of Medford Post No. 15, American Legion, reports that members of the local post will join with the state organizations in fully supporting the Keep Oregon Green campaign to keep forest fires out of the state this year.

"Forest protection is a vital phase of national defense and fits directly into the American Legion's program," said Mr. Williamson.

"When we see the great wastage of timber, scenic beauty and wildlife due to man-caused forest fires in Oregon every year and realize that observance of a few forest safety rules can check most of that waste, we must admit that a grave responsibility rests upon every loyal citizen of the state. That responsibility is simply to correct our own individual carelessness in the forests, and in traveling through the forests, and urging others to do likewise."

WHEAT DROPS ON CHICAGO MARKET

Chicago, June 14—(AP)—Wheat prices tumbled two cents a bushel in the short session today, wiping out all of the gain scored Friday.

With this retreat, the market showed a new loss of slightly more than a cent compared with a week ago. Traders said the optimistic crop report issued Tuesday offset wet weather damage inflicted on wheat in the southwest where harvest is being delayed.

The setback today was blamed largely on selling to place hedges, take profits, make spreads or even up accounts for the week-end. Some dealers were reported selling Chicago wheat and buying at outside markets but extreme weakness of wheat at Minneapolis and Kansas City did not confirm this.
