ALUMINUM DEARTH DUE TO 'ALCO' IS ICKES CONTENTION

Aluminum Company of America Hampering Production by Others, Claim

Washington, June 17.—(Ap1)—Flatly denying charges of Secretary of Interior Ickes, I. W. Wilson, production vice president testified today that the "Aluminum company (of America) has done everything within its power, and more" to aid the president's defense program. If a shortage of aluminum exists for airplanes and other vital defense needs, Wilson said that the aluminum company could not be blamed. He said that the company had furnished more of the metal than its own estimates and that Secretary Ickes had denied its requests for additional electric power at Bonneville dam.

Washington, June 17.—(Ap1)—Interior Secretary Ickes told a senate committee today if history records the present war as "lost," it may be because of the recalcitrance of the Aluminum company of America.

Testifying before the special committee investigating the defense program, Ickes said the company had worked to prevent aluminum production by other companies.

"It is as perfect a monopoly as ever devised by man," he declared during questioning by Chairman Truman (D-Mo.).

Too Polite
"We could get more aluminum if we weren't too polite," Ickes added.

Ickes said the aluminum company "would prevent the dissemination of the facilities of aluminum, regardless of the consequences to the United States, in order to get all the aluminum sources under its control."

Ickes told the committee that the Bureau of Mines had developed a method of making aluminum from alunite, a material found in Utah and Washington. He suggested that in building aluminum plants the government should refrain from making them so large that they could be purchased later "by only one big and wealthy company."

Competition Hampered
A large company might even buy the plants for the purpose of closing them and keeping them out of competition, he asserted and added: "Throughout its existence, the Aluminum company of America has bought out or hampered by all means in its power, every formidable competitor that ever threatened it."

Ickes said that additional aluminum fabricating plants should be located in the Pacific northwest to process ingots produced in that region. This would eliminate cross-hauls, he declared, adding that "we must take vigorous action to avoid the necessity of taking metals and materials on joy-rides back and forth across the country."

SIX DANISH VESSELS FIRST OF REFUGEES TO BE TAKEN BY U. S.

Washington, June 17.—(Ap1)—The United States placed on the active service list yesterday six Danish freighters, first of a refugee fleet of 84 foreign ships to be taken over by the government under provisions of legislation congress enacted two weeks ago.

The new law permits the government to operate foreign vessels upon payment of "just compensation" to the owners. Most of the ships to be taken over have been tied up idle in American ports for a year or more because of the European war. The commission said it would take over other idle foreign bottoms as quickly as possible. These include 28 Italian and two German ships. Whether this action would result in the release of additional cargo tonnage to Great Britain commission officials declined to say.

Besides the six Danish ships taken over, there are 33 other Danish ships in American ports. French vessels affected number 11, including the luxury liner Normandie. Other refugee merchantmen include two Estonian, one Lithuanian and one Rumanian.

MOVIE MANAGER TRICKS ROBBER

Moscow, Idaho, June 17.—(Ap1)—A youth who gave his name as Douglas Howell, 19, of Detroit, was in the Latah county jail today because he failed to notice that a Moscow theater proprietor held his pipe in his hands while he was being tied up.

The youth, charged with robbery of the theatre, was captured at Pullman, Wash., seven miles away, 15 minutes after Milburn Kenworthy, theater manager here, had been tied up and his safe robbed of more than $400.

Sheriff George K. Moody explained, Kenworthy slipped his pipe between his wrists as they were being tied and when the robber left, slipped the pipe away, leaving slack enough to free his hands.

Rushing out a side door, Kenworthy saw the robber leave in a car with a California license and called two friends nearby to follow the car. The friends beat the car to Pullman, and when it pulled into town, Policeman Art Campbell and Ed Sims stopped it.

LEGION AUXILIARY SENDING 5 GIRLS TO STATE CAMP

Five members of the Junior American Legion Auxiliary will leave June 22, for Girls' State at Silver Creek near Silverton. Jeanne Smith, Adrienne Leach, Barbara Collier, June Nissen and Beverly Leach are the delegates who will join the 140 girls enrolled in the camp this year. The camp, made possible by the American Legion Auxiliary of the state, is under direct supervision of Ruby Bergqvist, chairman; Alma Wilson, vice-chairman and Senator Dorothy McCullough Lee, government advisor.

Mrs. Lee states, "through the result of our experience in operating the program of government through recreation in 1940, we have a very definite basis on which to conduct Girls' State. We feel the girls came away from this week of training with a much broader viewpoint and a better understanding of the strength and weakness of the democratic system."

Jean Peterson, governor of 1940 Girls' State sent this message, "we learn a lot in school about the theory of government, but Girls' State made these lessons real to us by giving us actual practice in government. Our experience helped us to develop personal leadership. We girls of today will become women of tomorrow, so if we become accustomed to assuming the responsibility of leadership now, we will naturally do this in our government when we become of age. I know I speak the sentiments of all the girls who were privileged to attend the first session when I say that we certainly feel grateful to the American Legion auxiliary who made this program possible."

The highly-specialized training of each naval aviation cadet costs the government about $25,000.
