

APPROPRIATIONS WAIT SIGNATURE AT WHITE HOUSE

Over Four Billion Dollars
Cleared by Congress in Final Strenuous Hours

Washington, July 1.—(AP)—Congressional clerks today speeded to the president for signature more than $4,000,000,000 in appropriations, the product of the last strenuous session of the old fiscal year which ended at midnight.

Wary members of the house of representatives cleared their desks and quit at 10:30 p. m. (EST) and the senate did not adjourn until 10:44. Team-work between the two houses, marred only by minor disputes, cleared not only the key spending bills but also legislation expanding and continuing the commodity credit corporation.

The day's work brought close to $40,000,000,000 the record-breaking total of congressional appropriations and spending authorizations voted thus far this session.

Relief Included
The principal measures dispatched to President Roosevelt during the lengthy day were:

The $910,805,000 relief bill; the $1,060,500,000 farm measure, including funds for "parity payments" to farmers; the $1,195,861,940 supply bill for the labor department and the security agency; the $1,030,000,000 deficiency bill, providing more than $400,000,000 for 2,256 new naval planes; the $54,183,106 supply bill for the District of Columbia and the $25,002,256 appropriation for the maintenance of congress itself.

Also approved was a measure continuing the commodity credit corporation for two years from today and increasing its lending power from $1,400,000,000 to $2,650,000,000. The increase was necessary in part to provide for recently authorized commodity loans at 85 per cent of parity prices.

GOOD TIDE SUNDAY FOR CLAM DIGGING

Low tides will not be so favorable for clam digging on July 4, but will be better on Sunday, Holly's sea food market said today.

Best July low tides will be from the 6th to the 12th and from the 20th to the 26th when all will be minus tides at a time of day convenient for clam diggers, the market said.

July 4 low tides: Crescent City, Cal., 1:36 a. m. and 1:04 p. m.; Brookings, 1:31 a. m. and 1:09 p. m.; Port Orford, 1:46 a. m. and 1:14 p. m.; Marshfield, 3:41 a. m. and 3:09 p. m.; Florence, 3:06 a. m. and 2:34 p. m.

Sunday low tides: Eureka, Cal., 4:29 a. m. and 4:04 p. m.; Crescent City, 3:24 a. m. and 4:09 p. m.; Brookings, 3:29 a. m. and 3:04 p. m.; Port Orford, 3:24 a. m. and 3:09 p. m.; Marshfield, 5:29 a. m. and 5:04 p. m.; and Florence, 4:54 a. m. and 4:59 p. m. (Note: Add six hours to get approximate time of high tides.)

OLDEN N METHUSELAH!

TRY THIS ON YOUR CAMERA—In getting a close-up photograph of the world's oldest living thing, the General Sherman tree in Sequoia National Park, ingenious Mike Roberts, photographer of Oakland, brought along a forty-foot tower. He set it up, climbed on top and shot a full length picture of the 274-foot high Sequoia Gigantea. This extraordinary direct color photograph is included in the Standard Oil Company of California 1941 collection of scenic views. The pictures in this collection, depicting scenes along highways of the West, are being distributed by Standard Service Men throughout the West. The distribution is being handled through ninety-one zones on a rotating schedule with the release of a new photographic print every two weeks. Under this plan a motorist may collect several different pictures in a normal day's driving and a sizable collection on longer trips.

Science Casts Cold Eye Upon Hopi Snake Dance

New York (AP)—Science is severely critical of the Hopi Indian snake dance. Ever since the white man began finding his way around northern Arizona, he has been amazed by the snake dancers. How they were able to play with rattlesnakes and not get bitten was a mystery.

It is a mystery no longer as far as some experts are concerned. At considerable personal risk, Dr. Charles M. Bogert of the American Museum of Natural History discovered a trick behind the ceremonial.

In Natural History, the museum's monthly magazine, he tells all. Dr. Bogert attended one of the nine-day ceremonials in a Hopi village last August. He sat with the Indians and watched priests dance with writhing reptiles in their mouths. He counted 10 prairie rattlers, three Great Basin racers, nine Arizona bull snakes and one glossy snake.

At the close of the ceremony, the priests seized as many snakes as they could carry, dashed in to the desert, and released the serpents among the rocks.

Dr. Bogert and a companion, trying to make their actions as unobtrusive as possible, slipped into the desert themselves, found a 34-inch rattler, rolled it in a length of sack, and hid the bundle in Dr. Bogert's hat.

If the Indians had seen them manhandling one of their "sacred messengers," there's no telling what might have happened. But they didn't, and in the shelter of a convenient gully, Dr. Bogert examined the snake.

"A hasty examination," he reports, "proved no fangs to be present."

Back at their camp, they made a more thorough examination and found that the snake's embryonic fangs had been removed, making it "permanently and completely safe to handle." The venom glands were intact, but without the fangs, the snake was harmless.

What surprised Dr. Bogert was not so much the fact that the primary fangs had been removed but that the embryonic fangs had been skillfully excised.

"It remains an astonishing fact," he writes, "that the Hopi Indians are sufficiently well acquainted with the anatomy of the rattlesnake to remove so skillfully the reserve fangs."

"Few people, even among those who habitually handle rattlesnakes in circuses or in carnival shows, are aware of the fact that all venomous snakes periodically shed their fangs, and that merely breaking off the functional fangs does not render the serpents permanently harmless."

Dr. Bogert thinks that Hindu fakirs also are fakirs, and that their "power to charm the deadly cobra" rests on the secure knowledge that its fangs have been removed.

Of Alaska's 72,000 population, about 39,000 are white.

CCC APPLICATIONS MUST BE RECEIVED BY JULY 19, WORD

All applications for enrollment in the CCC must be received on or before July 19, Blanche D. Lyman, administrator of the Jackson county public welfare commission, the registering agency, said today. Enrollment dates for Jackson county have been set for July 3, 10, 15 and 19, she said.

Because of the disbandment of the companies at Camp South Umpqua Falls and Camp Orleans, Cal., no ninth area companies remain in the Medford CCC district and it was not definitely known to what company Jackson county enrollees would be assigned, headquarters stated.

According to present plans, the CCC will now place greater emphasis than in the past on vocational training, both as an element of national defense and as a part of the national social security program for the future. Defense training classes now being conducted in the Medford district include foundry and metal work, automotive repair, radio, cooking and baking, clerical work, wood working and ship carpentry.

Youths interested in enrolling in the CCC may procure information and application forms at any camp or the welfare commission's office in Medford city hall.
