

DRAFTEES WARNED TO LEAVE ADDRESS WITH LOCAL BOARD

Penalty Provided for Failure to Notify Boards of Mail
Address Is Word.

Headquarters of Jackson county local boards No. 1 and 2 emphasized again today that registrants under the selective training and service act are alone responsible for giving notice of any change in their addresses.

The responsibility of the local board ends when any necessary correspondence is mailed to the registrant at the latest address he has given. As a serious penalty is provided for not responding to any correspondence from a local board or other authorized body, it is a matter of grave importance to the registrant to see to it himself that the board is notified immediately of any change of address, headquarters said, adding that thus far the boards have been lenient but pointing out that there was no assurance the leniency would continue.

Must Notify Board
If a registrant is going away somewhere to work for what he thinks will be a short, temporary period, he should report in person to board headquarters and discuss the probability of his being called in the near future, it was explained.

Headquarters issued the statement in the face of a mounting pile of correspondence being returned because the registrant was not at the address on the board's records.

One of the difficulties in the first registration, it was related, was that in the blank for the address of the person most likely to know where the registrant would be the registrant invariably wrote the name of his wife. Experience has shown, however, that whenever the registrant moves, temporarily or permanently, the wife moves too. In the July 1 registration, registrants were requested to give the name of someone other than a wife.

255,361 ITALIAN LOSS IN 13 MONTHS OF WAR

PAMPERED CUB IN PARK BEAR GROUP IS KILLED BY CAR

Crater Lake National Park, July 11.—(Spl)—The unprecedented traffic which used the highways in Crater Lake national park on July 4 as well as the large groups of people proved entirely too bewildering and confusing for "Brownie," one of this year's bear cub triplets, and he met an untimely death under the wheels of a car.

The old mother bear emerged from hibernation this spring trailed by three lively and most attractive cubs not much larger than an ordinary house cat, two black and the third brown with black circles framing his eager and searching eyes. "Brownie" had plenty "bear appeal," and his popularity grew by leaps and bounds.

Thus it was quite natural that people in passing stopped to see and to take pictures of this most photogenic wildlife family. And, unfortunately, it was quite natural that these self same people would, on occasion, toss food to the bear family in order to get a little closer picture of them.

So it was that the family frequented the most traveled highway in the park, and a modern highway under even ordinary traffic conditions is the last place to bring up a cub bear to maturity, just as it is the last place to bring up a boy or girl. And the people who stopped to admire "Brownie," to take his picture and, most incriminating, to toss food to him, all innocently enough, contributed to his unfortunate contact with a man-made machine.

For the safety of the visitors and in the best interests of the wildlife itself, the national park service for the past several seasons has had a regulation which prohibits the feeding, teasing, or molesting in any way of bears and all other forms of wildlife. The public is urged to give support to this policy which has proven sound and wise so that a recurrence of a Brownie's permanent disappearance from the park scene might be avoided and so that the wildlife might work out its own way of life with a minimum interference from man.

Soldier Dance a Success

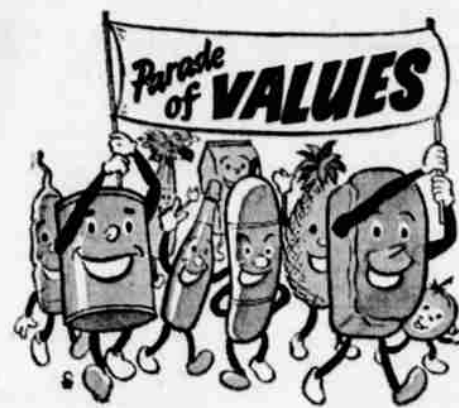

To the Editor:
I wish to take this opportunity to express the sincere appreciation of myself and the members of Medford Post No. 15 of the American Legion for the splendid cooperation rendered by your good paper and all those who assisted in making our dance, given in honor of Medford's soldier boys an unqualified success. It was this unified effort on the part of everyone which made it possible to not only show our soldier guests a good time but to realize a net profit of $162.78. This amount was turned over, in full, to Capt. McBee for the company welfare fund and will no doubt be appreciated by the boys when they return to camp. Again, we thank you.

E. W. Winkle, Commander
