

HOUSE EXPECTED TO ACCEPT HUGE TAX BILL CHANGE

Washington, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Belief that the house would accept the senate's most important change in the revenue bill—an amendment lowering personal income tax exemptions—was expressed today by Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the senate finance committee.

George said his information was that many members of the house ways and means committee had regarded the amendment favorably when the revenue bill was before them. "At that time," he added, "the treasury was not so strong for it."

Later, President Roosevelt recommended a broader income tax base and the senate approved an amendment cutting personal exemptions from $2,000 to $1,500 for married persons and from $800 to $750 for single persons. The treasury estimated the change would pour an extra $303,000,000 into the federal till and require an additional 4,911,000 persons to file income tax returns.

The $3,383,900,000 revenue measure, passed after three days of debate by the senate yesterday, will be considered by a joint senate house conference committee next Wednesday. George predicted that an agreement would be reached in two or three days.

George said the senate changes likely to cause the most controversy were those knocking out a special 10 per cent tax on corporation profits and increasing surtaxes on corporation incomes.

Interpreting The War News

By Edward E. Bonar

Young King Peter's suggestion that the British invade Italy promises to keep until he reaches his nineteenth birthday a year hence.

"The time is ripe," as the royal Yugoslav youth told an interviewer, but rather for continuation of the long range aerial hammering of Sicily which has been in progress for weeks and the telling attacks on Libya-bound axis convoys being made by British submarines.

Chances are plans for anything more serious than hit-run raids on Italy, or anywhere else in Europe, are on the high command's future spike just now.

As summer wanes in the desert country, making decisive military operations feasible, what seems immediately ahead of the British is a renewed struggle to hold on in the Mediterranean.

Successful invasion of Italy would demand expulsion of German and Italian forces from North Africa and a British advance 800 miles westward to Tripoli, opposite Sicily. The avenue of axis attack on Suez via Asia Minor would have to be blocked meanwhile, Crete either retaken or made harmless as a base for flanking air raids, and the remnants of the Italian navy scattered or destroyed. It's not a program for a week-end.

What neutral military authorities confidently look for first, as winter approaches in Russia, is a determined axis rather than British offensive in the Mediterranean. This time nazis rather than Italian forces are expected to lead the way.

The convoy attacks hint an energetic attempt to build up the Italian forces in North Africa into a formidable spearhead for a new thrust at Egypt from the Libyan desert.

On the other hand approaches to Suez via Asia, German forces are reported massing in the Balkans opposite uneasy Turkey.

The invasion of Russia may put Adolf Hitler's legions into position to drive southward from several other directions at the same time the attempt is made to close the Libyan jaw of the axis trap. Still other possibilities include an attempt to drive through Spain to North Africa by way of Gibraltar.

HAMBURGER STAND CAT HELPS LAW

Kansas City, Sept. 6.—(AP)—"Boots" was just another stray cat to Arthur W. Scott until—

He discovered "Boots" had an acute instinct of differentiating between a burglar and honest citizen.

Now he watches Scott's hamburger stand at night.

By leaping violently into the air from his perch and turning somersaults he frightened one burglar away and brought about the capture of an ex-convict on another occasion.
