

CLEMENCY GIVEN BEVERAGE AGENT ON GUILTY PLEA

A suspended sentence of six months was granted Ralph W. Hapner, beverage salesman, who entered a plea of guilty to obtaining money under false pretenses, by Circuit Judge Herbert K. Hanna, after pleas for leniency had been made by the complaining witness, his employer, the pastor of his church, and the wife of the proprietor of one of the groceries he bilked.

Hapner, 32, weeping and repentant, told the court he would make restitution amounting to approximately $300 and "never again punch a punchboard." Punchboards were blamed for his wandering from the path of honesty.

Hapner admitted that in delivering beverages over a period of a year he had "shorted" local grocers, charged them for more cases of Coca-Cola than he delivered.

The judge in granting leniency said "the court recently received an anonymous letter complaining about punchboards. The writer did not realize such matters can come before the court through the regular channels."

The court complimented Hapner upon having loyal friends who came to his assistance, "and testified to your previous good character and honesty." A. Foss of Eugene, district manager of the Coca-Cola company; Charles Bateman, who signed the complaint, Mrs. William Holloway and the Rev. R. W. Coleman, pastor of the First Christian church, all made pleas.

The court instructed Hapner to report once a month to the district attorney, and call upon the court occasionally. The hearing was concluded with the court commenting: "Your redemption is now entirely up to yourself, and I trust you make good."
