

4-H GIRLS TAKE MAIN HONORS IN HOGS AND SHEEP

Mary Helen Krueger And
Patsy von der Hellen
Grand Champions At Fair

By Maude Pool
Mail Tribune Special Writer.
Mary Helen Krueger, first year club worker from Dead Indian, and Patsy von der Hellen of Antelope, long in the field, rated grand championships in the hog and sheep judging held yesterday afternoon, opening day of the fourth annual county 4-H livestock show being held at the fair grounds, and sponsored by the Medford Rotary club.

Mary exhibited a Duroc-Jersey fat market hog, and Patsy received honors for the fourth year with a Southdown fat lamb. Kenneth Bendure of Shady Cove placed first in the goat division.
The beef fitting contest also was featured yesterday afternoon, the young bees being curled and cleaned to perfection. Louis Walsh of Lake Creek placed first in the Hereford fitting, and John Ousterhout of Little Butte first in the Angus division. Donald Nichols, Bellview worker, and only entry in the beginners' class, was given first place in his division. H. A. Lindgren of Oregon State college judged the sheep and hogs yesterday. The show will end Friday night.

Complete results in the fat market hog contest are as follows:

Justice court jurors in the trial of Stephen J. Cline, charged with passing another auto with insufficient clearance, were unable to agree and were discharged yesterday afternoon, after nearly two hours deliberation. The six-man jury informed the court they stood four to two for conviction. The trial lasted a day and a half.

District Attorney George A. Neilson has not yet decided whether or not to call another trial.

The case was based on an auto accident on the Pacific highway near Central Point last June, when an auto driven by Cline crashed head-on into a Greyhound stage. Nine of the stage passengers were hurt and Cline himself was only recently released from the hospital.
