FIRST AIR MAIL
FOR SALEM WAITS
POSTAL PERMIT

Philatelists Send Letters Here For Carriage to Capital in Flight Inaugural.

About 75 collectors' letters have accumulated at Medford postoffice for the first commercial airmail flight to Portland but unless special authority is received to send airmail from here to the state capital some other disposition will have to be made of them.

United Air Lines will inaugurate plane service to Salem tomorrow but thus far no authority has been received by Medford postoffice to make up an airmail pouch for Salem, Hugo Guenther, mail superintendent, said. Authority to dispatch emergency pouches, however, has been requested of the regional superintendent at San Francisco and it was thought that such authority would be granted. Under such authority a pouch of airmail may be made up for Salem whenever volume warrants, Mr. Guenther said.

Saturday Deadline

The Medford postoffice has until Saturday to receive authority to get the collectors' airmail out, for although plane service to Salem begins tomorrow, the northbound mail plane will not start making calls at the state capital until Saturday. This plane, which arrives here early in the morning, starts its northbound trip at San Diego and since the one arriving here tomorrow morning will have begun its flight tonight it will not be affected by the new schedules until Saturday, Max C. Henne, company manager, explained.

The first mail-passenger-express plane to call at Salem tomorrow will be the late night southbound Mainliner. Coming from Seattle and Portland, it will leave Salem at 10:35 p. m. and arrive here at 11:47 p. m. and depart at 11:52. The early morning northbound plane, which will start calling at Salem Saturday, will arrive here from San Diego and way points at 4:54 and leave for Salem at 4:59. It is scheduled to arrive at Salem at 6:11 and Portland at 6:41 a. m.

The northbound flagstop Mainliner leaving Medford at 4:03 p. m., will stop on signal at Salem beginning tomorrow, being scheduled to arrive there at 5:15. The southbound plane that now flies over here in mid-afternoon will stop at both Salem and Medford on signal. It will arrive at Salem at 1:05 p. m. It will arrive here at 2:22 and depart at 2:27. These planes will carry passengers and express but no mail.

Wall St. Report

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Stocks ran into enough profit cashing and tax selling today to stem the market's rising tide.

While favored industrials managed to cling to fractional improvement, and isolated issues were up as much as 3 or so, an early extension of the recovery swing flattened out after mid-day and closing trends were moderately irregular. Rails were hesitant from the start.

There were frequent slow-downs but speedy flurries were plentiful and transfers for the full proceedings were around 1,150,000 shares.
