German Planes Bomb Own Men in Blackout

Realty Board Acts to Aid Home Owner Obtain Fairer Tax

When a home owner sells his home at a price higher than the purchase price he pays a federal income tax on the gain. In case he sells his home at a loss he should, therefore, in fairness be allowed to take a deduction for the loss. The National Association of Real Estate Boards in resolutions adopted at its annual convention just closed in Detroit, points this out, expresses its belief that the federal revenue act should be amended "to provide for and permit a home owner to deduct his or her loss in case a home is sold at a loss."

In furtherance and encouragement of home ownership, the association in the resolutions adopted unanimously by the delegate body, asks for "homestead" amendment of our inheritance tax laws. It expresses the belief that in case of death of one spouse a homestead occupied by man and wife should be exempted from all inheritance taxes if left to the surviving spouse.

Portland Family to Share Large Estate

Portland, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Harry M. Euler of Portland disclosed today that his family had been notified it ultimately would receive approximately one-fourth of a $700,000 estate.

It is the estate of William J. Keeley, one president of the Auto-Pneumatic Player Manufacturing company, New York, who died Aug. 25, 1940.

The will, Euler said, bequeaths about $155,000 to his family plus $500 each to his two daughters and one son.

State G. O. P. to Study Public Road Needs in Southern Oregon Area

Grants Pass, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The need for public roads to open up the known mineral and lumber wealth of the mid-Pacific coast region has been brought forcefully to the attention of many people by the publicity campaign led by the late Gilbert E. Gable, and the impetus of the sound portions of the move should not be lost.

So said Niel R. Allen, Republican state chairman, today as he assigned the study of the development portion of Gable's program to a committee of the Republican party under the announced program of studying and acting on all problems the general public considers vital. Allen had just returned from several days of conference in California.

"People asked everywhere why northern California and southern Oregon counties were dissatisfied," he said, "and then supplied their own answers: 'It's because of the lack of roads, isn't it?' they said."
