Study Club Hears Discussion On Alaska

Wednesday Study club members heard an interesting discussion of Alaska at the Girls' Community clubhouse last week when Mrs. Frances H. Cochran gave a paper on Alaska and Miss Amy Harding told of her trip to Alaska during the past summer. Presiding during the session were Mrs. H. L. Brown, vice president.

Mrs. Cochran's paper pointed out that the mighty Yukon traverses the breadth of Alaska with Dawson as the metropolis and capital of the Yukon territory. The gold seeking argonauts, who boomed Dawson into prosperity are gone, Mrs. Cochran said. The boardwalks shook under the tread of 10,000 people but today Dawson resembles an empty show tent with most of the lights out.

Every summer during the open season of navigation 8,000 tons of ore and concentrates are handled from the Mayo lead and silver mine. United States does with Alaska a trade of $125,000,000 a year and her production of new wealth is over $100,000,000. Mrs. Cochran explained that on a per capita basis Alaska is the world's richest market. Air bases are being built throughout the uplands, the navy is fortifying Kodiak island, American bombing planes are based within flying range of the Japanese islands in the Sea of Okhotsk. Besides all this the U. S. is shaping plans with Canada for a military highway joining Alaska by land with the ports of Puget sound.

Miss Harding's talk gave members a detailed account of her trip to Alaska as far as Seward. She sailed on the Steamer Alaska, leaving Seattle August 5 and returning August 25. She saw the Columbia and Mendenhall glaciers and stressed the beauty of Resurrection bay.

Her trip included the Harding gateway, entrance to the bay which was named for President Harding, a trip through the cannery of the A. and P. company near Ketchikan, and other points of interest.
