HEALTH TALKS By DR. A. R. HEDGES Chiropractic & Naturopathic Physician Phone 3170 128 E. Main St.

THE SPINE When it is understood that there are 24 movable segments or vertebrae in the backbone of a person, and that nerve trunks issue to right and left between each junction of the segments, that each of these nerve trunks carries millions of individual fibers bundled together like a telephone cable leading to various parts of the body—then it is easy to realize how any one of these parts and organs may be affected by nerve obstruction—and why the effects can be as numerous as we have names of diseases. It is possible for one or several of the individual vertebrae to slip or turn slightly from their proper position by reason of sudden twists, falls, blows, strains or constant vibration. Since nerves run to every vital organ, when a nerve is impinged by a displacement of a vertebrae, at the spine, health is greatly impaired. A perfect spine would mean excellent health. A spinal examination should always be a part of every endeavor to regain health.

weapons, eight 5-inch anti-aircraft guns, and three aircraft. It cost $5,926,000 and was altered at a cost of $7,000,000 to increase its armor.

(The Cassin, Shaw and Downes were of the Mahan destroyer class, in the 1933 program. The Cassin and Shaw were both launched Oct. 28, 1935, at the Philadelphia navy yard. They were of 1,500 tons displacement and cost from $3,400,000 to $3,750,000 each. The Downes was launched at Norfolk navy yard April 2, 1936, and was similar to the other two.)

No Planes in Air Knox said no army or navy planes were in the air when the attack came, although planes of the navy's customary dawn patrol already were over the horizon.

The navy had not been patrolling at night, Knox told a questioner, considering such patrol would be ineffective. He said he believed 300 patrol planes would have had to be operating to entirely safeguard the islands from surprise attack.

Army losses in aircraft were severe, Knox said, and some hangars also were destroyed. But he added that replacements had already arrived or were on their way.

The Utah, the target ship lost, had not been used as a combatant ship for many years. It was subjected to a furious attack because, Knox said, the Japanese thought they were knocking out an aircraft carrier.

(The Utah was launched Dec. 23, 1909, at the New York Shipbuilding company yards, and was a former battleship being used as a wireless controlled target ship. It had 19,800 tons displacement.)

No Carrier in Port Actually, he said, no aircraft carrier was in Pearl Harbor at the time. The Arizona, he said, was destroyed by the explosion first of its boiler and then its forward magazine, as a result of a hit by a bomb which is believed to have literally passed down the smoke stack.

The mine layer Oglala was a converted merchantman, formerly a passenger ship on the Fall River line which was converted into a mine layer during the World war. She carried one 5-inch gun, two 3-inch anti-aircraft guns and a complement of 373 men.

Knox said some ships already had been repaired and were ready for sea.

Others, he explained, will take from a week to several months to repair. The Oklahoma was placed in the category requiring several months. Knox told a questioner that the Japanese planes which escaped "flew in four directions" to baffle pursuit.

Knox said he estimated that from three to four weeks at least would have been required to make preparations for the raid. He told an inquirer a rumor that the navy had been forewarned was untrue.

O.S.C. Prof's Son Killed In Action Corvallis, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The navy department notified J. S. Jones, professor of agricultural chemistry at Oregon State college, today of the death of his son, Lieut. William Shirley Jones, 25, in action in the Philippines.

Lieut. Jones was in the naval air corps stationed at Cavite at the outbreak of war.

HEADS C OF C Salem, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Carl Hogg, electrical appliance dealer, was elected president of the Salem chamber of commerce today.

LEGION PROVIDES PATROL SHELTERS FOR AIR WARDENS

Fifteen Ready for Use of Sky Watchers—Mills, Business Houses Aid.

Medford American Legion post today started to deliver and set up the first of air raid patrol shelters. Fifteen are now ready for use, according to the committee in charge, and a further survey is being made to determine how many more are needed. One is on display at the side of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce.

The committee said the response for help on the project, sponsored by the American Legion, was instantaneous with mills, business houses and trade unions supplying labor and materials without cost. All materials not donated were furnished at actual wholesale cost, it was stated.

The shelters are six by eight feet in size and will accommodate a cot and small heating stove. Anyone having either of these items, as well as folding chairs to donate may call American Legion headquarters at city hall, 4283.

Post Commander E. W. Winkle stated that the need of the patrol shelters was brought to his attention by the local Elks lodge which constructed and set up the first one. Upon investigation the post found that in the outlying districts civilians have been standing guard in the open on 24-hour shifts and in many instances suffering severe hardships.

Other organizations and business firms who have thus far contributed to this project are the Eagles lodge, Disabled American Veterans, Padgham planing mill, Timber Products company, Medford corporation, Porter Lumber company, Hubbard brothers, Hansen Hardware, Big Pines Lumber company, Trowbridge and Flynn, Medford stationery store, Brill Sheet Metal works, Jenkins Sign company, Frank Clark, Ekeron Paint and Roofing store, Central Labor hall and the Carpenters and Painters unions.

(The Utah was launched Dec. 23, 1909, at the New York Shipbuilding company yards, and was a former battleship being used as a wireless controlled target ship. It had 19,800 tons displacement.)

KIWANIS TO GIVE PATROL SHELTERS

Members of the Kiwanis club made plans to donate two air raid patrol shelters to Jackson County defense volunteer workers when they met in joint session with Kiwanian Dames at Hotel Medford this noon. Gene Thomas, Kiwanis member, donated money for one shelter and the club will complete financing of the second shelter.

B. E. Harder, chairman of the Jackson County Red Cross war relief fund, spoke briefly of the campaign now under way in the county to raise $12,000 for war relief purposes. Ernest Koefoed was appointed as representative from the Kiwanis club to work on the county committee.

Joan Francis was awarded the doll which was dressed and outfitted by members of Kiwanian Dames. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bing Francis. Mrs. O. J. Halboth, president of Kiwanian Dames and Capt. Charles Cox participated in the presentation. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bisbee of Portland and Mr. Harder.

THREE OF FAMILY PERISH IN BLAZE

Corvallis, Ore., Dec. 15.—(AP)—An early morning fire killed three members of a farm family of six near here yesterday. Flames of undetermined origin spread throughout the house, nine miles north of Corvallis, before Mrs. R. G. Slater awakened to shout an alarm. Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hillebrand, owners of the home, ran upstairs to rescue their sons. Hillebrand escaped with son William, 18, through a second-story window, but Mrs. Hillebrand was trapped with the other son, Homer Jr., 13.
